Rails End Gallery set to open this weekend

GUILD OF FINE ARTS NEWS

One of the oldest railway buildings in the country has been restored as the new home of the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts.

The restoration has been a joint project of the Municipality of Dysart, and the Guild of Fine Arts. The station was built in 1878 by the Victoria Railway Company, and has the special historical significance of being the terminal of what may have been the old railway in Canada to have originated in a colonization scheme.

The baggage room is now an art gallery, large and well lighted, for the display of travelling art shows, and as a place to exhibit the work of the excellent local craftspeople. There is a small office, a workroom where the station master used to sell tickets, and the old waiting room can be used for small meetings or displays. All of the many activities which the Guild sponsors every year will be more easily organized, more easily available, and more enjoyable because of this building.

The program on Saturday will begin at 2:00 p.m., when the guests arrive at the station in old-fashioned elegance. Don Popple past director of the School of Fine Arts will conduct a brief ceremony, assisted by Murray Fearrey, Reeve of Dysart et al, Bill Scott and John Eakins, Federal and Provincial Members of Parliament. Mrs. Ed Mirvish, a special guest on this occasion will cut the ribbon, and the "Rails' End Station Gallery" will be officially open.

The opening show is the work of a distinguished group of artists and craftspeople from all parts of Canada, who are gathered in Haliburton as instructors at the Summer School of Fine Arts.

These people have had their work displayed in such prestigious galleries as The Art Gallery of Ontario, The Montreal Museum of Fine Art, The O'Keefe Centre, Robert McLaughlin Gallery, The Ontario Crafts Council, The Canadian Guild of Crafts and Mary Moore. This is a rare opportunity to see this beautiful collection.

The gallery will be open Saturday until 5:00 p.m., and from now on, each week from Tuesday to Saturday 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. This particular show will stay until July 28.

In the evening the Guild members and friends will gather at Sir Sam's Inn, Eagle Lake for dinner and the presentation of honorary memberships.

This is also an excellent chance to visit the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts Annual Summer Exhibition and Sale at the Senior Elementary School from 11:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. each day.

Donkey baseball was the name of the game at Memorial Park in Haliburton Thursday night, and some players, like Bob English pictured here, didn't have the easiest time of it. For more pictures and story, see page 7.

Councils may be given power to approve subdivision plans

Planning boards will lose their power and municipal councils will gain the right to approve plans of subdivision if proposed changes in the province's Planning Act are carried out.

The changes are among numerous reforms of planning policy suggested in the recently released White Paper on the Planning Act.

Main thrust of the proposed reforms is a shift in planning control from the province's Ministry of Housing to municipal and county councils. If the white paper proposals are adopted, some powers that are now held by the Ministry such as approval of plans of subdivision, will be transferred to counties and cities. The province will continue to monitor municipal planning decisions through the approval of overall municipal plans. Amendments to such plans will still have to be submitted to the Minister, but the need for approval by the Ministry will be unnecessary if there are deemed to be no provincial interests involved.

Municipalities will gain powers that previously rested with the Ministry if the white paper reform proposals are adopted. The authority to prepare and adopt official plans for example will be transferred to municipal councils, including county councils. The power to approve plans of subdivision, as well as land severances, also will be given to county councils. Local councils will be assigned general zoning powers, site plan control, the right to grant minor variances to zoning by-laws, community improvement (redevelopment) powers, and the right to pass occupancy and maintenance by-laws.

Planning boards will lose their authority under the proposed reforms. At present, planning boards made up of ratepayers and one or more members of council, consider planning matters and make decisions subject to council ratification. The proposed reforms, however, are based on the premise that all planning decisions are "political" and should therefore be placed in the hands of elected bodies such as councils rather than in the hands of appointed bodies. If the reforms become law, all planning boards would immediately be dissolved. They could be reappointed by councils, but only to act as advisory bodies.

On the matter of official plans, the White Paper notes that official plans "can and should be made more flexible". Such plans are not mandatory at the moment, and will not become so under the reforms, but without an official plan, municipalities will not be qualified to receive certain powers the Minister may choose to delegate. Where official plans do exist (Dysart et al is the only municipality in Haliburton County which has an official plan) municipal by-laws and public works will only be required to "generally" conform to the plan.

Zoning is another area where the white paper proposes changes intended to eliminate confusion and inflexibility in current legislation. Under the new scheme, zoning would be grouped into the various purposes for which it is used, including

Council sets fee of $5 despite owner's plea

Despite objections from at least one trailer park owner, Dysart et al council voted Monday to set a fee of $5 per site per year for trailer park inspections.

The decision came as an amendment to a trailer park licensing by-law passed by council last month. A previous by-law governing trailer parks had been passed in 1972 and was subsequently rescinded. This year, the Ministry of Industry and Tourism, who were responsible for such inspections in the past, shifted that responsibility back to municipalities. Because the new by-law was passed in June, however, council voted to waive the inspection fee until 1980, to give trailer park owners a chance to incorporate the new cost in their fee schedule.

Eugene Ripley, owner of Rips Sleepy Hollow trailer park on Pine Lake, told council that owners would be unable to pass the cost of inspection fees on to park users.

"We cannot raise our prices anymore," Ripley said, adding that the bulk of his clientele were "working people", for whom an increased cost might be significant enough to discourage them from using the park.

Dysart reeve Murray Fearrey said he thought Ripley's points were "well taken", but added that the council

Falls through dam taking pictures, Orillia man drowns

A 74-year old Orillia man drowned last Tuesday when he fell through a stop log opening at the Oblong Lake dam.

William Deacon Irvine was taking photographs at the dam, accompanied by his wife and daughter, when the mishap occurred. Irvine was turning to take another photo when he fell through the uncovered opening in the top of the dam that allows access to the stop logs. He struck the top stop log and was swept away by the fast water. Irvine was unable to save himself in the turbulence below the dam, and drowned.

Coroner Dr. H. E. Good of Haliburton pronounced the man dead at the scene.

No post mortem or inquest were scheduled.

No malfunction in X-ray equipment but setting high

by Joe Banks

Patients x-rayed at Minden Red Cross Hospital are receiving four times as much radiation as they should be, but the effects of the excess are not significant, the Echo has learned.

The x-ray machine, which has been the subject of much controversy and concern over the last month, was checked last week by Dr. Anthony Holliday-Rhodes, a Minden doctor, and Dr. Ken Taylor from the Radiological Research Laboratory at the University of Toronto. Dr. Taylor, who is investigating claims of excessive radiation from other machines across Ontario, for the Red Cross, found the machine gave off four times as much radiation as a patient requires when x-rayed.

Though Dr. Taylor could not be reached at press time, Dr. Holliday-Rhodes, who two months ago wrote a letter to the executive director of the Red Cross outlining his concerns about the machine, said the reason for the excessive dosage is that "they (the hospital) are using slow screens which require four times the amount of radiation than faster screens." Consequently, to get a well exposed negative, the dosage settings on the machine must be turned up, he said.

"In order to get proper darkening of the film, we've had to turn the machine up, and I could never understand this."

Though the machine is checked every six months by representatives from the Ministry of Health, Dr. Holliday-Rhodes said "the technicians from the Ministry of Health are never supposed to make a recommendation which will involve the spending of money." New screens for the machine, said Holliday-Rhodes, will cost about $1,000, but "in the long run it's going to be very worthwhile, and in the short run too, because any amount of extra radiation should be avoided."

"I think it's been very worthwhile for him (Dr. Taylor) to come up and test the machine like this, particularly in view of...all the machines he tested," across Ontario. The Minden doctor said Dr. Taylor, in the course of those tests, "found that some of the downtown (Toronto) hospital machines...had been giving out a tremendous amount more radiation than the same examination at a different hospital."

The two men have also discovered that the machine itself does not malfunction, and Dr. Holliday-Rhodes said, "it looks as though we won't need to get a new one, which is going to save an awful lot of money." Abdominal and spinal x-rays will be possible at the Minden x-ray facility, he said, if "rare earth screens" can be obtained, which are a very fast type of x-ray screen.

"That way, when using a grid, we can take the x-rays which we can't do now of abdomens, spines and hips."

In May, Dr. Holliday-Rhodes sent a letter to David

Four businesses hit early Monday morning

Youths charged with breakins

Two youths and a 15-year old juvenile face a number of charges in connection with a rash or breakins in Haliburton Village early Monday morning.

Dray Bonyun, 16, and a 15-year old juvenile, both of Haliburton, have each been charged with three counts of break, enter and theft, and one count of break and enter with intent to commit theft. Peter Wilson, 18, of Haliburton has been charged with possession of stolen property valued at over $200.

Police say thieves entered the office of Haliburton Cable TV in the Bishop building by forcing in a window air conditioner. Stolen was $1000 in cash, and cheques valued at approximately $1300. A grey metal cash box containing the bulk of the cheques was found later that morning in the area of Medley's Takeout and Arcade, which were also hit by thieves. The incidents occurred between 3 a.m. and 5 a.m. according to police.

Thieves smashed a window and opened a door to gain entry to the Arcade, causing an estimated $20 damage. Stolen was $70 in cash. Medley's Takeout was also entered through a window, but no theft was reported and

The Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts opened their annual summer sale last Friday night at Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School, and some people, like Jodie Brownson, 5, and her brother Cameron, 3, of Peterborough, took an active part in the demonstrations. The sale will run through the week until July 17th.

This was the scene on the Longford Road on the Black River in Muskoka County last Wednesday after a truck owned by Hyland Lumber of Haliburton collapsed a bridge. The driver, Keith Cowen of Haliburton, was uninjured. Damage to the truck and trailer is estimated at $6,000.

A Lakefield man received major injuries as a result of this accident, which happened on highway #519 just north of Haliburton. Francis Borrmann, 29, said he narrowly missed a passing truck, and went into the west embankment, rolling the truck over once. Damage to the truck is estimated at $4500.

Planning Act reform proposed

long term controls, short term controls, and site plan controls. Long term zoning would be used to provide "certainty and predictability" where existing uses are ongoing and unlikely to change. It would also be used to prezone land "where future uses have been firmly established."

Short term zoning could be used to temporarily constrain development in areas until new development policies are completed, or to zone land for temporary uses for periods of three years, renewable at the end of the period.

Reforms to the role of the Ontario Municipal Board are also called for in the White Paper. To reduce the number of appeals of planning decisions currently heard by the OMB, the White Paper stresses that the public should be notified before planning decisions are made by municipal councils. The idea is to allow councils to hear the public's point of view before commitments are made to particular decisions. Under the proposed reforms, no one would be able to appeal a planning decision before the OMB unless he or she (or an authorized agent) has attended a municipal meeting in which the planning matter is discussed, and has registered with the municipal clerk. The onus would fall on municipalities to ensure that the public knows when a plan is being prepared and what it proposes. Notification would be required for official plans, zoning and other by-laws passed under the Planning Act, and for variance applications and redevelopment plans. Exempted from public notification requirements would be subdivision plans, severance applications, and site plan control applications.

The OMB, under the proposed reforms, would always assume that the decision of a council is the right decision unless an objector proves otherwise. As well, the OMB would consider only the issues of an appeal rather than its merits.

Review of the Planning Act culminating in the White Paper has been going on since 1975, and final approval of new legislation is not expected for up to two years.

New directories to be delivered starting July 9

The new telephone directory for Lindsay-Peterborough and surrounding area is the first issued in Ontario to feature Bell's Centennial cover.

Bill Stephenson, local Bell manager, said Bell marks its 100th anniversary on April 29, 1980 and the cover portrays the evolution of the telephone through the years. Twelve phone models which were put into use between 1877 and 1968, are depicted. All Bell directories issued in Ontario during the next year will have the Centennial cover.

Some 96,000 copies of the directory will be delivered, beginning July 9 and ending about July 25, Stephenson said. This is 3,500 more copies than last year.

Bell Canada is continuing its policy of delivering one directory per customer. Anyone who does not receive a copy by the end of July should call his local Bell Canada business office.

The last Lindsay-Peterborough directory was published last November. Stephenson said Bell has reverted to a summer directory because delivery is much easier, particularly in the cottage area.

Stephenson said subscribers should consult the information in the introductory pages. These include emergency numbers, for police, fire department and ambulance, long distance area codes, discount times for long distance calls and Bell Canada numbers for repair, directory assistance and business office.

Turner, executive director of Red Cross hospitals, suggesting solutions to apparent problems with the x-ray facility. "I have been concerned for some time with the quality of the x-ray equipment at the Red Cross Hospital in Minden," the letter said. "I have also been concerned about the lack of trained technicians to operate this equipment."

A copy of the letter was sent to Dr. Taylor in Toronto, who, at the request of Sonya Holliday-Rhodes, and the Red Cross hospitals, carried out tests on the machine throughout last week. Dr. Taylor will prepare a report for Red Cross hospitals, outlining his recommendations and any changes he feels the machine should undergo.

Stolen boat found

A sailboat stolen on Kushog Lake was found on the same lake by its owner.

Minden OPP say the boat, a '77 Laser was stolen late Saturday evening or early Sunday morning. Edward G. Morrow of North York, owner of the boat, reported the theft and later found the boat on the same lake.

Government acting on Task Force report

The provincial government has acted on at least ten of the recommendations contained in the Report of the Liberal Task Force on Tourism. The report, prepared by a group of MPP's that included Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins, was made public in June of last year.

In a statement this week, Eakins outlined a number of the recommendations contained in the report that have been acted upon in recent months.

Time to prepare for the parade

With only three weeks left to go before the Haliburton Rotary Carnival, it's time for all those who want to enter a float in the parade to begin making preparations.

Theme of this year's event, according to parade chairman Gerry Dawson, is "The Year of the Child". All those who want to see this year's parade turn out to be the biggest and best one yet are urged to begin turning their ideas into a float that may well be a prize winner.

More details about the parade and prizes offered will be available next week, the parade chairman said.

Because the Task Force thought resort owners themselves had the best idea of where their clients originate and what they are looking for in a holiday, the report recommended that a program be implemented on a trial basis for the $3 million increase in the advertising budget that would allocate the money to the local travel associations. The group also recommended that the province make available promotional material and road maps for tourist operators intending to set up booths at sportsmen's shows in the United States.

In March 1979, the Minister announced a program to enhance the marketability of resorts featuring 50 billboards strategically placed in the southern Ontario market, a toll free telephone line between Toronto and Orillia for reservation information, and an attractive sales brochure featuring Ontario resorts to be distributed to travel agents in Ontario and the United States.

In order to alleviate the confusion resulting from the difference in the size of the Canadian gallon of gasoline vs. the U.S. gallon, the report also recommended that the provincial government prepare conversion charts that can be distributed and posted at service centres on expressways.

On March 5, 1979, the government announced a program to correct an American misperception by placement of special stickers on service centre gas pumps on Highways 400 and 401 to show the difference between the Canadian imperial gallon and the U.S. gallon in size and price.

The Task Force also noted that while measures had been taken to alleviate temporarily the sales tax on accommodation, there was no sign that any long term solutions were being developed.

On April 10, 1979, in the provincial budget, the treasurer announced an extension of this sales tax relief to March 31, 1981.

The Task Force also asked the Minister why he didn't promote the fact that out-of-province tourists are exempt from retail sales tax if their purchases are taken out of the province within 30 days.

The result was that on March 5, 1979, the government announced they would be actively marketing the sales tax rebate form and that it would be distributed to all "We Treat You Royally" participants and through all Ontario government information centres.

The report recommended that the province examine the information booths that welcome tourists to the province and upgrade those facilities.

On March 5, 1979, the government announced that our Tourist Information Centres were simply not good enough - and they were looking at the centres with a view to substantially upgrading them.

Following that on May 10, the government announced the construction of a $350,000 travel information centre at Fort Erie as the first of four new-style centres and the Minister stated his intention to upgrade all of the province's information centres during the next four or five years.

Another recommendation of the Task Force was that a pality "cannot justify doing inspections and not charging."

"We cannot justify lodge owners paying business taxes and trailer park operators going scott free," he said.

Ripley disagreed, stressing that he and other trailer park operators had to live on the proceeds of nine weeks of strong business in the summer to meet overhead.

"We've raised our rates to the limit," he said. "The economy is catching up to the working class. We can't pass it on."

Ripley said bookings at his park are down "35 to 50 percent this year," and attributed the decline to the increasing cost of gasoline.

Asked what he thought would be a "fair rate" for the mandatory inspections, Ripley said he thought council should charge "$50 a year, regardless of the size of the camp."

Ripley said council "should be creating an incentive" for tourists businesses such as trailer parks. But reeve Fearrey disagreed. Council, he said, had "provided an incentive for the past seven years by charging nothing" for trailer parks.

In the end council amended the new by-law to set a rate of $5 per site for inspections of sites, but made the charge effective beginning in 1980.

Minden OPP say a 17-foot boat powered by a 140 horsepower motor was being operated on Horseshoe Lake by Gary T. Leatherdale, 25, of Orillia, when the mishap occurred Saturday afternoon. The boat turned sharply near shore, throwing Leatherdale and two other passengers into the water.

Margot G. Menzies, the third passenger, remained in the boat, which went out of control and struck the shore. Menzies was taken to Peterborough Civic Hospital suffering undetermined injuries, including the apparent broken leg.

Damage to the boat and motor was estimated at $2800. An investigation into the mishap is continuing.

County council holds June meeting

At the June meeting of Haliburton County Council, the following matters were considered:

Children's Aid Society representative Meredith Amm reported on an Administration Committee meeting of representatives to the Children's Aid Society, minutes of which had been distributed to members of county council. Concerns of the representatives were directed to items of procedure which had been established by the Children's Aid Society, and certain changes were recommended.

Finance chairman H. Bannon advised that the Finance Committee recommended all accounts as listed be approved.

Marching bands to be featured at Legion Carnival

Next week's Haliburton Legion Carnival will feature performances by four outstanding marching bands, Legion officials confirmed over the past weekend.

Marching and playing for the carnival and its parade, slated for Wednesday, July 18 at 7 p.m., will be the Ontario Provincial Police Pipes and Drums Band, the Haliburton Legion Pipe Band, the Bracebridge Legion Band and the Canadian Knights Drum Corps.

From Peterborough, the Canadian Knights are comprised of some 50 children ranging in age from 8 to 15 years. Not only did this band place first in its class in North America, it outscored older drum corps as well.

Following the carnival parade, the Canadian Knights will present a colourful precision drill to music at the fairgrounds.

Expected, but still unconfirmed is the Port Hope Sea Cadets Band.

In most instances the participating bands will present individual band concerts following the parade.

The carnival parade will also be highlighted by four visiting Legion Color Parties from Apsley, Kinmount, Cobocok and Wilberforce.

Also marking this, the 34th annual Haliburton Legion Carnival, will be live entertainment Wednesday evening starring the Ike Keneck Band, plus dancing, bar facilities, bingo and an outstanding midway opening at 1 p.m. and featuring a variety of rides, games and booths.

Capping the day's events will be the draw for a Ford Thunderbird to be held at the Haliburton Curling Club.

Accounts were approved in the amount of $70,530.72 representing cheques numbered 366 to 318 inclusive.

The clerk was authorized to advertise the Rabies Clinic locations in Minden and Haliburton as well as the necessary staff to man the clinics.

Dr. Mikel, M.O.H. will be sent a letter of appreciation for his efforts in obtaining a Rabies Clinic for Haliburton County.

Correspondence was accepted as recommended by the Correspondence Committee and read.

Haliburton County Water Levels Committee chairman Murray Fearrey reported on a recent meeting of the committee. The Haliburton County Water Levels Committee for the remainder of the year 1979 is Murray Balkwill, Don Fisher, Don Larmouth, Phil Rimmington, Bev Robinson, Bob Stinson, Jerry Strickland, William Scott, M.P., John Eakins, M.P.P., Warden James Harrison, Reeve S. G. Nesbitt and Reeve Murray Fearrey, with County Clerk Winnifred Lahay as secretary.

Chamber of Commerce representative Fred Baum commented on the new logo, copies of which were distributed. The winter lure book is being prepared.

Single car crash sends Lakefield man to hospital

A single vehicle accident near Haliburton Village early last Wednesday morning sent an RR #4, Lakefield man to Haliburton hospital with major injuries. Francis G. Borrmann, 29, was southbound on Highway 519 just north of the village when the '75 pickup he was driving went out of control, entered the west ditch and rolled over.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $4500.

A Toronto man was charged with careless driving following a rear-end collision on County Road #1 in Hindon Township, Friday afternoon.

Minden OPP say Benjamin Bailey, 74, of Barrie was westbound and being followed by Alexander Couture, 32 of Toronto, when Bailey applied his brakes. Couture's vehicle collided with the rear of Bailey's car, and then hit a number of guide rails on the south side of the road.

Damage to the guide rails was estimated at $210. Couture was charged with careless driving.

Management; K. Tallman, Representative to H.K.P.R. District Health Unit; Major G. Lewis, Representative to Children's Services Committee, and M. Fearrey, Chairman of County Road Committee.

By-law 1073, a by-law for the purpose of amending the by-law adopting a plan of County Road Improvement and establishing a County Road System in the Provisional County of Haliburton under the Public Transportation and Highway Improvement Act, was passed.

George Dove, local director of the Children's Aid Society, attended county council to discuss in particular the proposed attempt to persuade the Ministry of Community and Social Services to assume the full cost of children in group homes and institutions which had been outlined in Dove's letter of April 30.

Members of council also questioned Dove about practices of procedure set out by the Children's Aid Society.

Dr. Sam Linzon of the Ministry of Environment was introduced by Brian Cross of the Ministry of Natural Resources who had been requested to provide information on the probable effects of acid rain on vegetation in particular. Extensive experimentation and research are being carried out with simulated rain to which acid has been added, resulting in the premise to date that there is no direct proof of acid rain causing adverse effects on vegetation. Council stressed the utmost importance of preserving the quality of our lakes.

By-law 1074, a by-law to rescind By-law 978, Procedures for Haliburton County Economic Development Commission and revert to jurisdiction of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, was passed.

By-law 1075, a by-law for the purpose of consenting to the passing of a by-law by the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden to stop up, close and convey parts of a certain allowance for road in Lots 9 and 10, Concession 1, Township of Anson, was also passed, as were by-laws to close roads in Guilford, Dysart, Harburn and Dudley Townships.

The report of Haliburton Economic Development Study be loaned to the local newspapers, and further copies be provided to our clerk-treasurer for distribution. The Haliburton Economic Development Study is a staff report prepared by the Ministry of Treasury and Economics, had been distributed to members of the Haliburton County Economic Development ment Committee and to members of county council only until further release was approved by county council.

The Provisional County of Haliburton will request the Province of Ontario to pay 100 percent of the cost of Kawartha Haliburton Children's Aid Society for children in group homes and institutions rather than the 80 percent previously paid by them. This refers to the resolution presented by Peterborough City Council.

Peterborough County Council, Victoria County Council and is an endorsement of same.

Clerk-treasurer Winnifred Lahay was requested to attend the Ministry of Housing meeting in Barrie June 28 relative to the Planning Act White Paper.

The regular June meeting of county council was adjourned at 2:30 p.m.

Big cars, open spaces, and repressive attitudes all came as a surprise

Canadian gas seems cheap to Danes

Gasoline at 23 cents and more a litre may seem a painful reality to most Canadians, but to a group of Danish Scouts and Guides who spent a week in the county last week, those prices made Canada seem like a kind of paradise. In Denmark, you see, gasoline costs the equivalent of 75 cents a litre, and no one can afford to drive the kind of large cars that are commonplace here.

But gasoline prices and large cars weren't the only things that struck the Danish visitors as different about Canada. The group of 43, all from Ballerup, a small town near Copenhagen, found the landscape and the conditions at the Haliburton Scout Reserve, where they spent most of last week, nothing short of remarkable. First there were the hills. The highest place in Denmark is only 143 metres above sea level, and standing on the shores of Lake Kennebec, where the reserve is located, the group was at a height of more than 300 metres with hills rising around them in every direction. And there was the privacy. In Denmark, the group said, camping is done in open fields, and walls have to be fashioned to separate the groups. In the reserve the Danish Scouts had no such problem, and the difference struck them as a pleasant surprise.

Another difference was the animals. As one of them put it in the excellent English all Danish youngsters learn in school, if you woke up in the morning and found that some of your food was gone, you'd suspect a fellow camper. But in the Highlands, the culprit would more likely than not be a mischievous raccoon.

The main difference the Danish visitors encountered though was a difference in attitudes. In Denmark, scouting is co-ed, and ideas of morality and male-female relationships are more open and free than in North America.

The group, all members of a drum, bugle and flute band, began their Canadian tour in Toronto and were continuing on to Kingston and Ottawa before returning to Denmark from Toronto, July 18.

A 74 year old Orillia man died last Tuesday when he fell through the stop log hole of the Oblong Lake dam and drowned in the turbulent water below the structure. William Deacon Irvine was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Dr. H. E. Good. The Oblong Lake dam is one of many in the area which do not have stop log hole covers.

Fiddlers and step dancers heading for Haliburton to compete in two day contest

Fiddlers and step dancers from across Ontario, Quebec and the northern United States will converge on the Dysart Curling Arena this weekend for the third annual Haliburton Fiddle and Step Dancing Contest.

Some 38 contestants were registered early this week, eight more than had signed up by this time last year, and contest chairman Harold Bannon said he was confident the contest would be an even bigger success than last year, when 85 competitors took part in the two-day event.

"It's looking very good," the contest chairman said, adding that the bulk of the entries normally come on contest day.

On the line this year will be prize money totalling $2000, as well as 12 trophies.

Activities will get underway at 1 p.m. on Friday and will continue through the evening, with a second program slated to begin at 7 p.m. Playdowns for fiddlers and finals for the step dancers will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, with the second program and finals in the major classes slated to begin at 6:30 p.m. This year marks the first time the playdowns have taken place on the afternoon and evening of the second day.

Fiddlers will compete for trophies and prizes in seven classes, and a special competition will also pit fiddlers from the county against each other for the title of Haliburton Highlands' best.

First prize of $75 and a trophy, second prize of $50 and third prize of $25 will be on the line for fiddlers in classes of 5 - 12 years; 13 - 18 years; 19 - 34 years; 35 - 49 years; 50 - 64 years; and 65 and over. In the open class the first place finisher will receive $100 and a trophy, with $75 going for second place and $50 on the line for third.

Step dancers will compete in five classes with prizes of $75 and a trophy, $50 and $25 for finishers in classes of 5 - 12 years; 13 - 18 years; 19 - 34 years; and 50 and over. The open class for step dancers has a top prize of $100 and a trophy, with a second prize of $75 and a third prize of $50. Saturday's playdowns are expected to be completed by 9:30 p.m. Saturday, and will be followed by a dance featuring the Frank Leahy dance band.

Another first for this year's contest, according to the chairman, is a door prize of a $100 bill to be presented to one lucky fiddle and step dancing fan.

A number of trailers are expected to arrive for the contest and will be accommodated on the grounds adjacent to the curling rink and arena.

All proceeds from this year's event will go to the Dysart Recreation and Community Centres Board, and will be used to support various recreation activities in the municipality.

A time to share

Few Canadians can remain unaware of the plight of the boat people. Refugees from Vietnam and Cambodia, they continue to leave the shores of their homeland in leaky boats, by choice or by decree, to seek refuge in Hong Kong or Malaysia. But those places, already overcrowded and poor, have neither room nor money to help the refugees. Thousands have died, and thousands more will die, unless the rest of the world reaches out to help.

Canada has agreed to accept 8000 of those refugees, but the quota can be increased if individuals or groups choose to sponsor a refugee family for their first year in Canada.

Churches in Minden have already indicated an interest in doing just that, and Thursday night, Haliburton ministers and members of the village's service clubs are expected to meet to discuss what can be done. It's a move that deserves the whole hearted support of the community.

Canadians pride themselves on being a free, charitable and fundamentally moral nation. But freedom, charity and morality are only meaningful when they are exercised. Seldom does an opportunity arise for people to demonstrate a deep seated concern for humanity by taking action. But the plight of the boat people is one case in which Canada, above all other nations, can demonstrate the principals upon which the country was founded and upon which it has grown.

Yet one has only to read the Letters to the Editor column in the Toronto Star or listen to conversations on local street corners to realize that a large number of Canadians have grown smug and bigoted in the face of the privileges they enjoy.

For the fact is that many Canadians are against the sponsorship of boat people. They feel the country is theirs and theirs alone, and they do not wish to share it with others. They feel the freedom and the wealth of the country are to be hoarded rather than carefully and wisely shared.

It is easy to forget that Canada is not a country made up of one group, and that Canadians are not long standing members of the world community. The country was built on immigrations and there are few people alive today, even in Haliburton County, who are not themselves descended one, two, perhaps three generations ago from people who immigrated to this country from other places, more crowded, more repressive, less open, with less opportunity.

The ministers and service clubs of Haliburton will have done a great service to the boat people if they agree to sponsor a family, with the help of the community. More than that, however, they will have performed a service for the country by demonstrating that it is made up, in the main, of people humane, generous and wise enough to know that all humans have the same right to life, and that Canadians have long enjoyed that right while others of the world's people continue to struggle for it.

Each of us should do what we can to see that the suffering of the boat people is relieved. Few projects could be more worthwhile, or more vital.

Keep politics out

The Ontario Government recently released a White Paper on the Planning Act that calls for a number of reforms in the planning process as it currently exists. While some of those proposed reforms, notably those which eliminate government red tape, would be welcome changes, speeding up the process of development for the benefit of all, other proposed reforms are questionable seen in the light of small areas like Haliburton County.

The most important of these questionable reforms is one which proposes stripping planning boards of their powers and making councils totalling responsible for planning decisions. On the face of it, this may seem like a beneficial reform. Why shouldn't the people who are elected to a council take the responsibility for the majority of planning decisions in a municipality or a county? The answer is simply that by making the planning process into a political process, the government would be opening up planning to pressures that could prove detrimental to sound decision making.

As things stand at the moment, planning boards consider planning decisions and make recommendations to councils. Councils are not bound to act upon those recommendations, but they seldom go against them. A planning board made up of knowledgeable citizens appointed by council can take the time to make sound decisions free of outside pressure. If those decisions were placed in the arena of open council, they could quickly be subjected to voter pressure.

The reforms outlined in the White Paper are merely proposals, and must undergo a process of scrutiny from the public and municipal governments before they become law. It is to be hoped that in that process the proposal to abolish planning boards will be scrapped.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On Saturday, November 10, 1979, a dinner will be held in Toronto in honour of Couche and Harry Ebbs, former directors of Camp Wapomeo, The Taylor Statten Camps, located in Algonquin Park.

We would appreciate your assistance (by printing this letter in your paper) in reaching some of the hundreds of campers and staff who attended Camp Wapomeo between 1924 and 1975.

Of the over 10,000 who have attended these internationally reknown camps (Camp Wapomeo for girls and Camp Almek for boys), some of the better known alumni are former Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, former NDP leader David Lewis, Judge Janet Bowland, skater Barbara Ann Scott, equestrians Jim Elder and Liz Ashton, Metro Toronto Children's Aid Director Doug Barr, actor Al Waxman.

Wapomeo alumni who would like further information may write to: The Ebbs Dinner Committee, Box 457, Station "Z", Toronto, Ontario, M5N 2Z6.

Sincerely,
Susan Hayhurst

Editor's Notebook

by Len Pizzev

Anyone who has spent more than a week or two in Haliburton County will have discovered that after the weather, the favourite topic of conversation wherever people meet is the state of the economy. That, of course, is not surprising. So much depends on how much the tourists are spending, on how many Americans are journeying north to enjoy our lakes and resorts, on how many people are buying or selling cottages in the county. In an economy without a solid base in industry and commercial enterprise, the fluctuations of the dollar and the whims of weather are of vital importance. So it isn't hard to understand why people who meet on the street ask each other how things seem to be going this year. What is surprising however, is that there is no way of gauging how well things are going either during or after the summer rush. One store will report to a fellow merchant that he or she has been busy, while the other merchant will say, looking more than a little concerned, that things just don't seem to be picking up as much as he or she had hoped.

And the variations in interpretation can be extreme even within the same business. At a meeting of Dysart council Monday, two people with an interest in trailer parks came to council to discuss aspects of the business. One was the owner of an existing trailer park, who told council that the season was not going well. He said the price of gasoline was already beginning to have an effect on the amount of business that was coming his way, and painted a bleak picture both of the potential of trailer parks to provide an adequate living and of the future of the service in the county. The other person was about to start up a trailer park. He, obviously, had a point of view that differed radically from the first man. He felt there was and is solid business opportunity in trailer parks, and he is more than willing to take a gamble. Two men, two points of view. There's nothing surprising in that, except for the fact that both are talking about the same area. Both are talking about the Haliburton Highlands, where the tourist industry has been, and it would seem, will continue to be the major stimulus to the economy for some time to come.

How could there be such differing points of view? The answer is simply that no one in Haliburton County has an overall picture of the state of the economy. No one has compiled any statistics from year to year that would indicate local trends. And that is a shame. Because armed with that information, a person interested in starting up a trailer park might have a solid basis on which to make a decision to go or not to go with the concept. And the same would hold true for anyone considering starting up a business in the county.

Ask how many Americans visited the county last year, and its more likely that not that you'll be told "there seemed to be quite a few American plates on cars travelling up Highway 35" through the week. Of course no one knows whether they stayed in the county or merely passed through. This sort of "wet finger held to the wind" approach might have been appropriate or at least forgivable at one time, but today, when competition for tourist dollars continues to intensify, it is completely unacceptable.

Haliburton County needs to know who visits it, and from where, if it is to expand its market or ensure that those who come once will return again. It needs a proper survey of visits, spending habits, likes and dislikes if it is to move beyond the stage where no one really knows whether business is up or down over last year or the year before.

The time has come for the Chamber of Commerce to set up such a record keeping system in cooperation with county business and tourist operators. The cost of such a program would not be large compared to the benefits.

If nothing else, knowing who visited the county last year, and from where, will lend credibility to those conversations about the second most important subject in Haliburton County. But it would do more than that, of course. It would give merchants and tourist operators a measure of present and past performance, and would help them predict the future. Statistics may not be the clearest of crystal balls, but they would sure beat a finger in the wind.

I sometimes wonder if we who live here in Canada are proud to say that we are Canadians. We should all feel really proud to be living here in this great nation with our many resources, our high standard of living and the freedom that we enjoy. I wonder if we don't take all this for granted. Canada week has come and gone and most places in Canada went all out to celebrate this great occasion. It would seem that we here in Haliburton County couldn't care less. No organization seemed to even take the time to celebrate by holding special events. It made me really feel proud to be a Canadian after watching the special television program from Ottawa on July 1 and to hear everyone standing and singing our national anthem. Let's all get on the ball next year and make an all-out effort to celebrate Canada's birthday throughout the county.

While driving home from Minden recently I noticed some employees from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications doing some patch-up work on the Allsaw bridge.

Bill Murray, of T.V.'s Saturday Night Live, was in Toronto recently for the world premiere of Meatballs, the motion picture that was filmed in Haliburton and surrounding area. When asked at a party to review Meatballs the way he does comic fan-type reviews on Saturday Night Live, Murray drawled: "Well, it's better than Jim Nabors cooking on the Dinah Shore Show." Meatballs which is being acclaimed as one of the best Canadian films ever made will open at the Molou Theatre at Haliburton on Friday, July 13.

A friend of mine was telling me the other day that no wonder we have trouble with garbage being strewn along side the highway. He claims, and rightly so, that some visitors and cottagers who come into Haliburton possibly for the first time don't know where the dump in Haliburton is located. Possibly a sign near the Driftwood Restaurant pointing with an arrow to the dump would solve this problem. It's sure worth looking into.

An old fashioned indoor camp meeting with Evangelist Maud Ellis who has witnessed hundreds of miracles of healing, will be at the Gooderham Pentecostal Church on July 13, 14 and 15 starting each evening at 7:30 p.m.

Harcourt's 8th Annual Softball Tournament will be held at Harcourt on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 13, 14 and 15 with 14 teams and 19 games. There will be other attractions on these three days including a Super Flea Market and Bake Sale on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and bingo from 1:30 to 3:30. There will be log sawing at 12 noon and a disco dance with "Sound City" D.J. on Friday evening from 8:30 until midnight - $2.50 per person. An adult dance will be held on Saturday evening with music being supplied by Ramblin Fever. $6.00 per couple. Breakfast on Sunday from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. - $2.00.

The following is an editorial which was published in the Haliburton County Echo on February 12, 1953. It was headed, Our Luke Warm Christianity. What is said in this editorial still applies today and I thought that it should be reprinted in this column. "It is with something of a shock to go into many of our churches for a Sunday service to see row upon row of empty pews. It is a sign of the times, for today we are drifting further and further away from our Christian faith and are replacing it with a mad craving for pleasure. Meet the average citizen and ask him if he is a Christian - he will in all possibility say, 'of course I am'. I belong to the United Church, or, I belong to the Anglican Church, or, I belong to the Baptist Church, or, some other denomination or by the tone of his reply, one would infer that he is quite proud of the fact. But ask when he or she last attended church and many of them will be stumped for an honest answer. People today will spend money - lots of money, on pleasures - will drive many miles, spend many hours of their time to satisfy their craving for pleasure but cannot find time to spend one hour in the week to refresh their Christian faith that they are so bold to proclaim when asked about it. And if they do occasionally attend church they put probably one-twentieth of the amount they spent during the week on pleasure on the collection plate and expect the church and all the various services that go with the church to be ready to serve them, if and when needed. As one minister called them, 'they are wheelers'. They are wheeled to the church in a baby carriage to be baptized, wheeled to church in a car to be married and again wheeled to the church in a hearse to be buried, and that's about the only time the church sees them. Yet these same people will let a faithful few keep their church functioning so that when they need its ministrations, it is there for them."

Let's not forget that this coming Friday and Saturday at the Haliburton Curling Arena, Haliburton's 3rd Annual Fiddling and Step Dancing Championships will be in high gear. Plan now to attend this toe tapping event.

Recently many people have been pondering over their future and many are wondering where this world is going. In the Rotary Club's Governor's Monthly Letter, he had this to say. "Daily we hear of corrupt politicians, decaying morals in our schools and the manipulation of supplies to increase demands by the large corporations. Hopefully these are merely phases of our human inequities, for in a world based upon faith, we must establish hope as a fundamental ingredient of our society. We must assure the less fortunate that we are prepared to serve on their behalf."

A woman phoned a New York night spot and asked imperiously if her husband was there. When the proprietor asked how he'd recognize him, she huffed: "He's the one that looks guilty."

Chamber Stand For Free Enterprise

There's a story about the small community where a particular businessman was the only one in that area providing the services that he had available. The business did well, since it was after all, a "monopoly" and the community was relatively happy that their needs were being satisfied. Along came another businessman who decided to establish a second business of the same type in this community. The first businessman was very upset at this intrusion and appealed to various government bodies to block this new concern. He won some support, provoked considerable controversy, but eventually the new business was allowed to locate there as planned.

After a rocky period of adjustment both of these businesses flourished and they drew considerable traffic from surrounding communities. Because of the newly established competition the first businessman had been forced to upgrade his operation and improve his service. The new business, determined to acquire a share of the market, brought in new marketing ideas and products. Some of the public had not previously availed themselves of this type of service were encouraged to do so. The community gained through increased employment and economic growth in the long run.

Not all stories, of course, have happy endings. If, for instance, the first businessman had refused to upgrade his business in order to compete, the new one would simply replace his outdated one over a period of time. If he continued to spend time and money to block the new enterprise he would merely create a hostile atmosphere that would hurt both himself and the community.

The Chamber of Commerce by nature is in favour of the "Free Enterprise" system and recognizes that in order for our communities to be progressive and viable we must be prepared to welcome new business enterprises into them. To discourage this will cause stagnation.

Sorry, No Post Cards

This spring a number of our members asked the Chamber to attempt to do something about the lack of good local post cards. We responded by asking first of all for a commitment from members to purchase at least half of the quantity of cards we would order. We then chose ten scenes from existing slides and placed a rush order to have them produced for this season. Alas just as we thought everything was in order, the printer advised us that delivery of the cards would be the beginning of August. We hated to do it - but we cancelled the order. By the time we in turn had distributed these cards to our members who wish to sell them, there was little chance that more than half of them could be sold this year.

We will however have pictures taken this year to be used specifically for post cards that will be made available in good time next spring. We sincerely apologize for any inconvenience cancelling this order may have caused any of you.

Group Insurance For Members

The Chamber is currently investigating the possibility of providing group insurance for our membership. With our last newsletter we sent out a questionnaire in this regard. There were apparently some misunderstandings about the questionnaire. Hopefully these points will clarify members' concerns on this.

1. Returning the questionnaire in no way indicates you are intending to purchase insurance. It merely provides the company with the information they require in order to provide us with quotations on insurance plans.

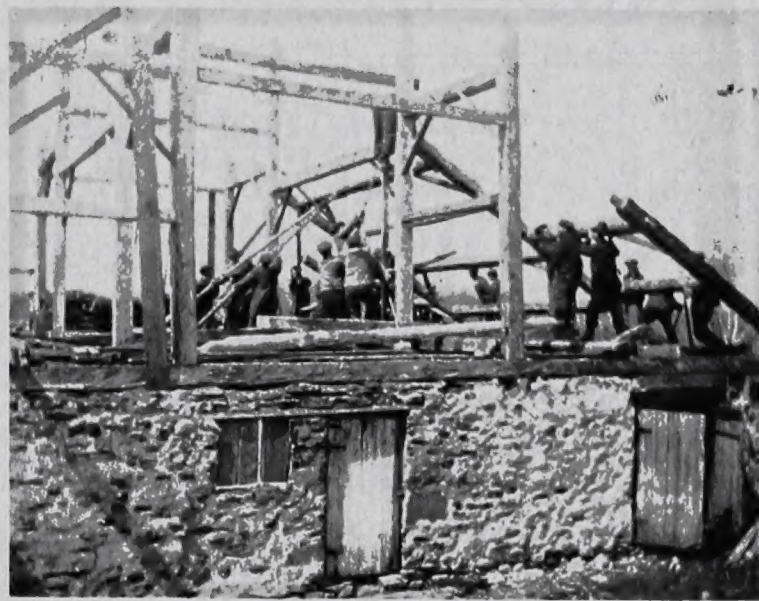

2. If your business has no full time employees other than the owners you may still insure yourselves under this plan.

3. If your business already has group insurance return the questionnaire anyway. This will provide you with a competitive plan with which you may compare your present one.

4. Please don't "wait and see". We can only offer you a group plan if a large enough percentage of our membership indicates an interest at the outset.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to call the Chamber office at 286-1760.

Pic of the Past

Our thanks this week to Theo Peacock of Gooderham for submitting this photo showing a group of men rebuilding a barn that had been blown down by a wind storm many years ago in the Haliburton County area. It was rebuilt one year later and all of the men shown in the photo are now dead.

Bill Smiley

Every year, when July rolls around, I breathe a pretty heavy sigh of relief. Not because school is over and there's a long holiday ahead. That's nice. But I can teach English with one head tied behind my back. And I'm not that wild about holidays.

No, the reason for the relief is that I have managed to wiggle my way through another year of being a department head without having any deaths, suicides or nervous break-downs among my staff.

Being head of a large department in a large high school would seem to be a rather enviable position. You are paid extra for it, and usually teach one less class than the other teachers.

Those are the good aspects. But there are others, and they are not all a piece of cake. I won't bother moaning about the incessant paper work, the scrambling to stay within a meagre budget with cost of books soaring steadily, the taking of inventory of about twenty thousand books. Those are the drudge jobs, and everyone has some of this in his work.

It's the personalities involved that make the job something less than a sinecure. A department head must be a combination of Momma, Polonius, Machiavelli, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, a priest, Napoleon and a touch of a psychiatrist.

For one thing, English teachers are a bit more creative, articulate and rebellious than most of their contemporaries, perhaps because they continually deal with ideas, not facts. Ideas are shifty things, and the conveying of them to students is more slippery than the teaching of more pragmatic subjects: science, math, geography, shops.

As a result, the English department head must serve as a wailing wall for his teachers who loudly and sometimes tearfully vent their frustrations at their inability to impart their own skills to their students. He must oil the joints of his department frequently, when some of its members seem about to come to blows with each other. He must act as a buffer between them and the administration. And he must stand up for them vigorously when someone is trying to shaft them.

Now, I hope you are not expecting me to say that I do all these things. A pat on the back here, a word of praise there, a shoulder to cry on, long one-on-one talks to restore their confidence, a stern reprimand when necessary, frequent department meetings where we "talk things out."

Not at all. If I tried to do all those things, I'd have been committed or had a heart attack long ago. I just leave them alone, let them crack up or break down, and try to show them, with invincible calm, my old theory that there is nothing, absolutely nothing in this world to get excited about.

It seems to work pretty well. I am rather shy and don't get involved in their personal lives, except to listen once in a while, if I can't avoid it. When they are seriously ill, I don't bug them, don't even go to see them.

We've had three department members with serious heart trouble in the last three years. They're all back on the job, better than ever. Probably because I left them alone, didn't show any particular sympathy, and let them solve it themselves.

When a couple of members are at each other's throats, I tell them to sort it out themselves, not come running to me for help.

We'd never think of having a meeting at which we "let it all hang out." We have the shortest department meetings in the school. Most of them are taken up with ribaldry, a little business, and a quick acceptance of a motion for adjournment.

We have quite an assortment. Three working mothers. One artist. One student who has been taking extremely difficult courses for several years. One poet. One guy writing a novel. One syndicated columnist. Three of us are former newspaper people. One lady teacher is a dogged and determined member of the salary committee.

We have a devoted Catholic and a couple of agnostics. We have a mixture of racial backgrounds: Polish, Scottish, Irish, Greek, French-Canadian and German.

Occasionally, one or two members of the department need a good blast from their head for recalcitrance, mopey or gawk. But I am psychologically unable to reach somebody out, and the trouble usually goes away, like bad weather.

Once in a while, when I become a little depressed at the way they are draining me, without knowing it, I take out a booklet entitled, "Duties of a Department Head". This gives me a good laugh, when I realize that I am a lousy department head, and I feel better.

There is only one area in which I fulfil my function. And this is a holdover from wartime. A good officer always defends the men under him. Unless, of course, they are hopelessly incompetent. When somebody climbs on the back of a member of my department, the usually benevolent Bill Smiley unsheathes his claws, and the attacker backs off.

Some departments have lengthy meetings, terrific infighting, and resultant smolderings. We have the happiest, most relaxed department in the school.

Just want to say thanks, guys, for a good year. And next fall, don't tell me your troubles. Tell your husband or wife or mother or kids, and we'll have another great year.

Report from Queen's Park

by MPP John Eakins

More than 50 pieces of legislation were passed during the spring session of the Ontario Legislature which has just ended. However, with only a few exceptions, the legislation was of a housekeeping or local nature. The following bills were of more general interest.

Bill 24: An Act to Amend the Environmental Protection Act. Among other things, this bill imposes clear responsibility for control, cleanup and restoration of damage upon those who cause and could control pollutants. It is the most wide ranging piece of environmental legislation with respect to spills of pollutants in Canada. Following committee hearings this summer, this legislation will be returned to the Legislature for approval.

Business people can voice concern

Business people who want to discuss Ontario government policies and regulations that affect them now have a point of contact in the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism.

"The Ministry has established a 'one window' approach to help business people voice their concerns and problems about government regulations and policies to people who can act on their behalf," said Industry and Tourism Minister, Larry Grossman.

"While Industry and Tourism has few regulatory functions, we will act as the main contact for Ontario's business people seeking the right information source in other government ministries which do administer regulations," he said.

Government procedures are also being examined to ensure they do not adversely affect business but are as simple as possible to follow.

Business people wishing to discuss Ontario government policy, regulations and procedures should contact Peter Friedman, manager of customer service, deregulation and industry support services, Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism, Queen's Park or telephone (416) 965-3405.

The main source for information about Ministry of Industry and Tourism programs, counselling and assistance remains the Ministry's regional offices located throughout Ontario.

Aggregates Act introduced

New pits and quarry legislation with more stringent operating and rehabilitation standards, as well as increased licence fees and rehabilitation security deposits paid by operators was introduced in the Ontario Legislature recently.

The Aggregates Act, which received first reading two weeks ago, will replace Ontario's eight-year-old Pits and Quarries Control Act.

Natural Resources Minister James A.C. Auld, in introducing the new bill, said the changes were recommended by a ministry-appointed working party which examined, among other things, rehabilitation of pits and quarries.

He said the working party concluded that vague or general reference to rehabilitation in the present act has resulted in insufficient rehabilitation work being carried out in some parts of the province. The new act has three purposes: to provide for the management of the aggregate and Crown aggregate resources of Ontario; to control and regulate pits and quarries, wayside pits and quarries and Crown aggregate pits and quarries; and to require the rehabilitation of land from which aggregate or Crown aggregate has been excavated.

Brian Mulholland finds the mark for LaRue Motors

Haliburton still in first place, Minden, Guilford tied for second in ladies league

by Helen Burk

Monday night Haliburton Victoria Sports ladies hosted the Minden Homestead team. Haliburton went ahead 4-0 in the second inning and held on to a 11-9 victory over Minden. Sheila Elston and Brenda Cooper helped lead the Haliburton team while Marlene Wilson and Lorraine Carpenter had a good night at the plate for Minden. Nancy Maughan was the winning pitcher while Anne Hewson took the loss.

Monday night also saw another close game played at West Guilford against Wilberforce. West Guilford came up on top 9-6 with strong pitching by Nancy Brink. Jennifer Muller went four for four at the plate for Guilford. Gail Krupa had a good night for Wilberforce. Susan Rowbotham was the losing pitcher.

Tuesday night, Minden trampled Snowdon 28-9. Jan Fitchett, Lorraine Carpenter and Andrea Burk led the Minden squad while Valerie Anderson and Colleen Bacon went three for four at the plate for Snowdon. Audrey Vick was the losing pitcher while Ann Hewson got the win.

Wednesday night Carnarvon travelled to Snowdon to come up with a 27-1 victory. Carnarvon was led by Sharon Harrison, Joan Algar and Marg Darby. Marg Darby was the winning pitcher while Audrey Vick took the loss.

Haliburton travelled to Wilberforce Wednesday night.

Snowdon played at Carnarvon Thursday night and again was beaten, this time 27-9. The Carnarvon team was led by Barb Barnhart and Lorna Wilson while Colleen Bacon and Ann Burk got the hits for Snowdon. Marg Darby was the winning pitcher while Audrey Vick took the loss.

Legion holds down third place, Haliburton Lumber in the cellar

LaRue still leading, Curry's pressing

The numbers eight and seven were prominent at Memorial Park in Haliburton last Wednesday, as teams in the men's recreational softball league assembled once again. Those numbers were the scores the four teams played to in their respective games.

The Haliburton Legion and LaRue Motors met in the first game of the evening, and this game proved to be one of the most exciting played in the season so far. The Legion squad took the lead early in the game after Craig Wood was walked, and playing coach Dick McLean hit a single into left field. The two players were driven in following major hits by Bernie Nicholls and Bob Woodcock.

The game was tied at the bottom of the first inning after Derrell Stamp and Bob Johnston were batted in by Sid Cooper, who notched a double. The bottom fell out as the Legion scored four more runs in the second inning. Bernie Nicholls laced the ball into right field, scoring an in-the-park home run and knocking in Mike Blake and Roger Still. Roy Scott also scored a run in the inning.

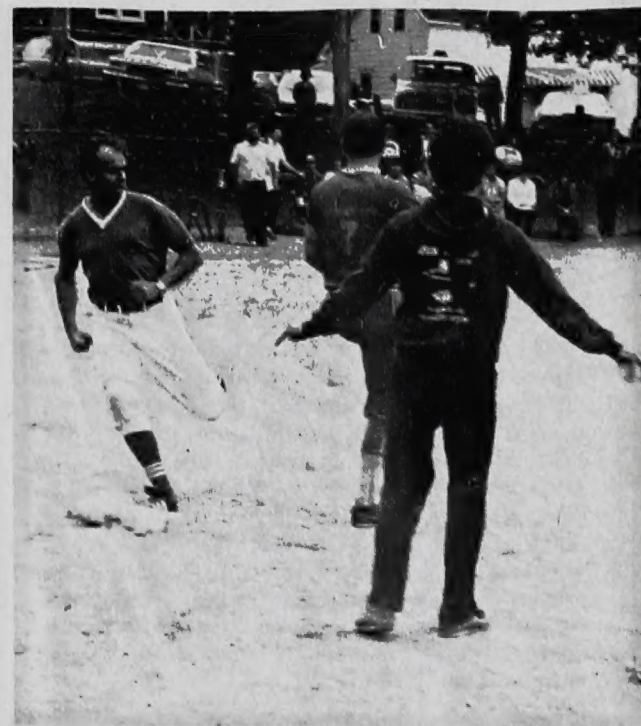

LaRue Motors scored another run in the third inning to decrease the Legion's lead to three. Following singles by Cooper and John Robinson, Brian Mulholland was batted in. The innings were even until the fourth, when hits by Stamp, Johnston and Robinson and outfield errors by the Legion team caused three runs for LaRue's. Two other runs were added when Robinson notched a triple, knocking in runners Brian Lloyd and Mike Fearley. The Legion held LaRue's from that point on, and managed a run by Bernie Nicholls in the bottom of the sixth inning. But the score was eight to seven in LaRue's favour, and that was the way it stayed until the end of the game.

In game two of the night, Haliburton Lumber and Curry Motors squared off in what proved to be another close match. The Lumber team, which is currently in last place, drew blood first in the second inning after Dwight Sisson was batted in through the hitting efforts of Earl Bull and Gary McKnight. Haliburton Lumber took an even bigger lead in the third inning when Derwin Barry, following some fast base stealing, was knocked home from a single by Roger Bain. In the fourth inning, Curry's came alive, scoring three runs through the batting of Eric Martin, Peter Lymburner, Kevin Sisson and Chris Hodgson. Jim Scheffe tagged up a run for Haliburton Lumber in the bottom of the fourth inning, and the team leaped ahead by three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning, with runs by Derwin Barry, Roger Bain and Ken Lewis. Dwight Sisson batted in two of the runners.

The Lumber team lead the game until the last innings, when Eric Martin and Doug Hardy started things off with two well placed hits, which resulted in Martin scoring. Mark Schell and Art Dawson scored two further runs, resulting from hits by Bill Davis and Pete Lymburner. Jim Scheffe marked a last-ditch run in the extra inning, but the tie was broken and the game won when fine hitting by Kevin Sisson and Schell resulted in their scoring runs. The final score was Curry Motors 8, Haliburton Lumber 7.

Currently, LaRue Motors lead the standings with six wins and one loss, and Curry's move into second place with four wins and three losses. The Haliburton Legion goes down one spot with three wins and four losses, while Haliburton Lumber is still in last place with one win and six losses.

Haliburton County Marksmen Club planning first ever 'chicken shoot'

Now that the blackflies have gone, the Haliburton County Marksmen Club will begin regular shooting at their range on the Bobcaygeon Road north of Minden.

First competition of the season will be a "chicken shoot" Sunday, July 15 at 1 p.m. Proceeds from the afternoon's events will be used to purchase equipment for the newly acquired range.

Included in the shoot will be some five events for .22 and high powered rifles with any kind of sights, as well as shotguns.

Shotgun marksmen will test their skills in the trap shoot. Second event is for those with .22 calibre rifles. Competitors will fire at metallic silhouettes from a standing position at a distance of 50 metres. Object of the competition is to knock down five silhouettes with five shots.

In the "Gong Show" event, competitors will fire powered rifles from a standing position at a gong placed 100 metres down range. Object is to hit the gong five times with five shots.

Fourth event will be a paper target competition for .22 rifle shooters. Marksmen will fire from a standing at a paper target 50 metres away. Winner will be the person who amasses the highest score with five shots.

There will also be a junior event, with the same conditions as for the metallic silhouette shoot, but with the distance reduced to 25 metres. The event is open to competitors under 15 years of age.

High power rifle and .22 shooters must supply their own ammunition, but shotgun shells will be provided free for the trap shoot.

At present, according to the club's newsletter, the OPP are in the process of inspecting the range with a view to having it approved for handgun shooting.

Ministry expanding program

A major expansion of the fisheries management program in Ontario is to begin immediately, Natural Resources Minister James A. C. Aid announced this week. He said $2 million had been earmarked for this fiscal year to begin implementation of the Strategic Planning for Ontario Fisheries program, widely known as SPOF.

"Fisheries management is complex in our province because we have 250,000 lakes, thousands of miles of streams and 34,000 square miles of the Great Lakes to manage," the minister said.

"We hope, when SPOF is in place, to preserve our magnificent fisheries in Northern Ontario as well as restore where possible those fisheries which have been degraded in the south."

The SPOF fisheries management program has a multi-year schedule. During the next few years, the province's fish restocking capability is to be doubled, and the number of lake and stream rehabilitation projects are to be increased.

A province-wide fisheries management information network linked by a computerized information delivery system is to be put in place. This data flow will allow MNR fisheries managers to respond quickly to problems before crisis levels are reached.

This boost will allow a start on additional restocking capabilities, the acceleration of the fisheries management information system and the completion of some rehabilitation projects.

Close to 100 people showed up at Memorial Park baseball diamond in Haliburton Thursday evening to watch the Haliburton volunteer firefighters and the Kinsmen Club of Haliburton compete in an intense game of donkey baseball.

There was hardly a dry eye on and off the field during the game, and players found it difficult to play since they were laughing so hard, notwithstanding the jeering from the crowd. One gentleman was heard to exclaim from the bleachers: "I wonder who the real asses are?"

Following some last minute position shuffles, and a little bit of donkey trading, the match got underway. Bob English was the first to score a run in the first inning for Kinsmen, though it took about 10 minutes for him and his donkey to make it around the bases. The Haliburton firefighters fought back in the bottom of the first, following a few assorted falls and some stalling on the part of the donkeys. Miles Maughan made all the bases in one piece, but Tony Salvatori wasn't so lucky. After a few abrupt meetings between the ground and the rider, the animal finally brought Salvatori home and proceeded to walk slowly around the plate twice. Luckily, the outfielder chasing the ball had problems getting on his donkey.

Donkey baseball: a new aspect to an old game

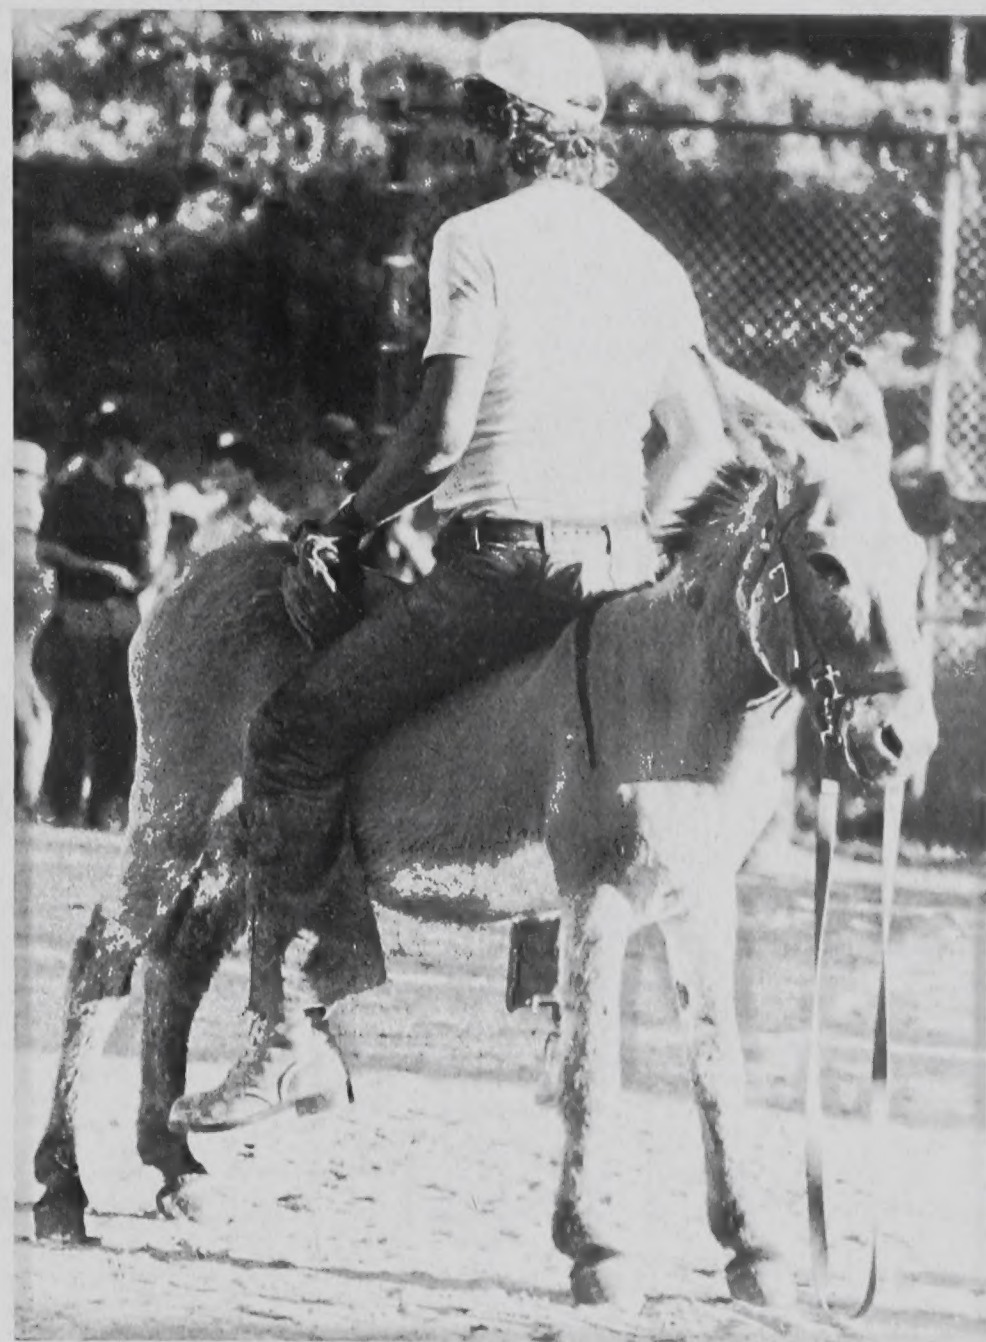

Staying on proved the toughest part

The game remained, for the most part, even from that point on until the Kinsmen Club rallied in the third inning. On his run to first base, Ken Smith found his animal to be very lively. It bucked furiously in an attempt to throw the player off his back. When Smith and the donkey tried heading for second, first baseman Maughan attempted to head them both off, but was dumped by his four legged partner into a pile of manure. Eventually, Smith tagged up and the score was tied at two.

There was plenty of excitement in the fourth inning, with Maughan scoring for the firefighters and John Parish - who almost didn't score since he slid off his ass so often - marking one for the Kinsmen. And that's the way the game ended - tied at three.

A donkey race to home plate to decide the winner was run after the game, and Kinsmen Jim Debenham managed to make home plate first.

Leroy Nesbitt drives his team

Norland firefighters horse draw

Small, game ponies can draw their share

While the mighty Belgians raise dust in their paths, and the team leader is being groomed for the heavy horse draw, small, lean and game ponies glance calmly around them.

Beside the heavy horses, they look like dwarves. Their feather-light tails flicking flies, they nose the trainer affectionately, as if to hurry the process. For once they are in the ring, despite their small size and sometimes slightly awkward nature, they will draw a stone boat four times their weight.

Diane Chynoweth, 16, strokes the mane of the shorter pony of the team of two. The horses belong to her father, Jim, of Norland, but she will drive the team in the ladies competitions. "I like horses a lot," Diane says enthusiastically. The competition is heavy this year, but Diane is confident in her slight team.

"They weigh about 450 to 500 lbs., and they can usually pull much more than that."

An old timer interrupts. "Yeah," he says. "They might not be able to pull my hat today, but some days they can draw big weight. They have their days, same as a person does."

The most weight the Chynoweth team has ever pulled was 4,000 lbs. That will put a strain on the ponies, but if the driver sees they are having a more difficult time than normal with the stone boat, he will usually halt the try, take the team for a walk and make another attempt, or simply give up. "It's a sport," says Diane, and like any other, the coach will stop the athlete if unnecessary strain is evident.

The ponies illustrate how horse-drawing has always been family oriented. The daughter and/or the mother will drive the ponies in the ladies competition, the son will prod on the light horses, and the heavy draws are usually left up to dad, though he may drive the ponies in the men's pony competitions.

On the farm, the ponies may or may not be used for drawing. Usually, they are ridden by the smaller sons or daughters for recreation, but, like their larger Belgian cousins, they will mainly be trained to draw heavy weight in preparation for the summer's contests.

And here, in Norland, at the first horse draw of the year, the Chynoweth ponies will do what they love to do; pull weight. As Jim leads the ponies to the dusty ring for the men's competitions, Diane walks quietly with them, either to comfort them, or herself, and to get some tips from her dad on proper driving. She watches the team make the first three qualifying rounds at the calling of her father, and she waits, looking on as the team, in their last bid for first place, grunts, strains and edges the boat forward. But the apprehensive face soon breaks into a growing smile, and a laugh. The Chynoweth pony team took first place.

Dwight Corbett wins first prize with a draw of 9300 lbs.

The weather cooperated nicely, and so did the ponies and horses as the Norland Volunteer Firefighters held their annual horse draw Saturday afternoon.

Four divisions were featured in the contest, consisting of pony, light, heavy, and women's classes. Trophies for the best teamsters and teamstresses were awarded at the end of the contest.

Following is a list of the winners and runners-up of the contest.

Pony class: first, Jim Chynoweth Sr. with a draw of 2500 lbs.; second, Larry Greer of Norland; third, Doug Ellery of Fenelon Falls. The trophy for the best teamster went to Larry Greer and was donated by Austin Lumber, and the winners trophy was donated by Norman Graham Plumbing.

Light class: first, Jack Laursen of Havelock with a draw of 6200 lbs.; second, Grant Quinn of Cobocok; third, Jack Batty of Cobocok. The trophy for the best teamster went to Jack Laursen and was donated by the Riverside Inn, and the winners trophy was donated by Country Style Donuts.

Heavy class: first, Dwight Corbett of Severn Bridge with a draw of 9300 lbs.; second, Ingram Wessell of Norland; third, Leroy Nesbitt of Minden. The trophy for the best teamster went to Joe McFeeters and the winner's trophy was donated by Discount Gas, and a bag of feed from Cocobok Feed Mills.

Women's class: first, Isabelle Wessell of Norland with a draw of 3600 lbs.; second, Elaine Corbett of Severn Bridge; third, April Laursen of Havelock. The trophy for the best teamstress went to Elaine Corbett, and was donated by the Wessells, and the winning trophy, at the request of winner Isabelle Wessell, went to second place finisher Elaine Corbett since the trophy was also donated by the Wessell family.

The lucky winner of the $1000 bill draw was Violet Greer from Cobocok, and Max Greer of Cobocok won $100 for being the lucky ticket seller.

Two groups obtaining information on acid rain, fish populations and deer habitat

Gathering scientific data becomes a summer experience for students

Heading out to the test area: Brett Yule and Ken Jackson

Steve Parnell takes readings from acid meter

by Joe Banks

Scientific data, and the gathering of it, can play an important role in the protection of natural resources, and that's why this summer, county lakes and wildlife habitats are undergoing intense study.

The studies are being directed by the Ministry of Natural Resources. Base of operations is the district office in Minden, and the data gatherers are students working under Experience '79 grant programs for the Ministry. Deer habitat and fish trap net studies are the responsibility of one group of two, while two others are looking into a recent problem that has touched every cottage and resort owner in the county: acid rain.

The information gathering is being supervised by Ken Jackson, acting as fisheries and wildlife supervisor for the summer. He'll be busy over the next few months, coordinating and overseeing projects such as the trap net study done on the Burnt River near Kilmount. That project ended today (July 11), and the students doing the survey will move into county forests to undertake deer habitat studies.

"We want to know how many fish there are between the falls and the highway on the Burnt River," Jackson shouted over the constant roar of the boat engine, as the craft moved closer to the first net. "There's never been a study done on this section of the river before." Water temperature and chemistry were recorded two weeks ago on the three mile section of water.

Eric Bernier, a commerce student at the University of Toronto, has been working for the Ministry for the past four years and admits he "just keeps coming back - I've done something different every year." He said he finds the working interesting, even though he is not studying a related field in university. His partner, Brett Yule, a student studying heavy equipment at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Lindsay, is in a similar position, though this is his first summer with the Ministry. But, watching the riverbank pass as water cascades by the speeding boat, he admits his first year "is great."

Four nets have been set in the river; three six foot and one four foot trap in various locations. The number of game fish trapped will be recorded, and the size and weight will also be noted. The information will be forwarded to anglers who request information on what kinds of fish may be found in the river.

The first net yielded a sizeable catch, with two pickerel, two smallmouth bass and one muskellunge. One of the pickerel weighed about six pounds, making it a prized catch for any fisherman. A piece of the fish's pectoral fin is cut off for identification purposes, and a scale sample is taken. The fish is then gently released. Any pan fish, perch, carp, suckers or turtles are not recorded since they are not considered game fish.

After the net is reset, the data collectors proceeded to the other nets, which were not quite as full as the first. Among them, a snapping turtle was found, and let go as quickly as possible to the relief of its captors.

'We know this river...'

"We know this river pretty well by now, since we're coming down and checking the nets every day," Bernier said, dumping in the last net. The students have noticed consistently better catches in one spot in particular, finding "a few good pickerel" in the trap net. The findings seem to indicate that the Burnt River still holds a number of excellent game fish for the patient angler.

As for the deer habitat studies, which become slightly more involved, the students will do a stem count of small trees and shrubs of a section of a winter deer yard. Basically, this involves going to a treated area, or cut over forest, and running a straight line through the center of the cut. Brush within the line will be counted, and the type is noted. This helps Ministry officials predict what feed may be available for the deer in the winter, and in what quantity.

Downstairs, in the basement of the Ministry's main office, there are very different kinds of tests going on. And the results derived from the information could give scientists a good idea of whether some lakes in the county will live or die.

Drew Carey, a business graduate of Sheridan College and Steve Parnell, a local grade 12 graduate, are engaged in gathering water samples of various lakes around Haliburton County and in some outer sectors. The water samples are then tested by means of a pH tester. The small machine shows the operators the current pH count in the lake's water, and how much acid must be added to it per unit before the water registers 3.5, or "dead". The more acid that has to be added, the better the lake may sustain acid rain. The results are all forwarded to the Ministry's head office in Toronto, and graphs will be plotted from the data.

Many of the lakes are isolated and can only be reached by airplane. Parnell and Carey take a "column" of water from the top of the surface to the thermocline (the depth where the water temperature changes), contain it in a small bottle, and store the sample in a cooler until they get back to the Ministry office, where testing begins.

Since this is the first year acid rain content has been studied in lake water, the results derived from the sampling may not mean anything until next summer. "There has to be a working base, some sort of record they (scientists) can compare with over last year," said Jackson.

The studies will be done on the main sporting lakes in the county, and on some minor waters as well. And though the data the students under the Experience '79 program gather may seem rather ordinary or unimportant to the average layman, they could eventually change the way we treat our natural resources in the county.

And those changes, in effect, could change the way we live.

MNR employing 20 students

A total of 20 students will be working for the Ministry of Natural Resources this summer in the county under an Experience '79 grant program.

The program is the provincial government's special summer employment initiative, and is entering its seventh year of operation, offering 13,610 job opportunities through the summer. A total amount of $19.5 million dollars have already been allocated for the province-wide program.

There will be one participant assuming the job of clerical assistant, while two others will be employed as a radio operator at the district office fire control centre and a clerical assistant in equipment control.

One participant will assist on a Royal Ontario Museum research project and another will assist the fisheries management officer on trap net study. Two participants will assist in deer habitat studies, while two others will help out on lake surveys. Five students will be involved in resource management access point maintenance, canoe route maintenance and crown land management. Another six students will develop access points on municipal lands.

New superintendent named for lake park

A new superintendent has been named for Balsam Lake Provincial Park near Cobocok. Helmut Bretschneider assumed the duties of his new position Monday, July 9.

The previous superintendent of the Balsam Lake Park, Paul Wooten, has been transferred to the Ottawa District as parks operations supervisor.

Hall's Lake tales proven tall

The bottom of Hall's a dark, unseen realm. But it's not endless

Some mystery, a little bit of superstition, and more recently, summer cottages, have surrounded the waters of Hall's Lake over its history. To old-time loggers and die-hard fishermen, it is the deepest lake in North America, and will remain that way forever.

At one time, mighty timber logs filled its diameter, inched along by the prodding of pike-poles, each one awaiting the trip into Boshkung Lake and south to the sawmills to be cut into building lumber. Today, the only logs that lie on the basin sit on the dark bottom in a deep, cold and black realm which no man has seen. Motor boats have replaced the shout of the river drivers, and the smell of freshly cut pine is overshadowed by the aroma of sizzling steaks from a cottager's barbecue.

But physically, Hall's Lake has not changed greatly. On a map, most of the county's lakes seem long, and often narrow, etched out by a massive glacier thousands of years ago. But Hall's Lake is different.

Unlike its major neighbour, Boshkung, Hall's Lake is almost completely round, with only a slight cleft on the leeward side of the water's only island, out of which the Kennis River flows. She is fed by Little and Big Hawk Lakes, which in turn receive water from the expansive Kennis Lake. Hall's Lake is almost like a bowl, its diameter averaging one and a half miles from shore to shore in most areas of the lake. And its depth, for its relatively small diameter, is astonishing.

Nila Reynolds, in her book 'In Quest of Yesterday', reports that in the days of logging runs through the lake, loggers discovered that her waters were over 1,000 feet deep. "In some sections of Hall's Lake," the book states, "warping was impossible since two 500 foot lengths of cable could be fastened to the anchor and it would still swing free. One such spot is estimated to be over 1,200 feet deep and below sea level." This tale has spread to the lake's summer and full-time residents, and has evolved into a rumour of the waters being "bottomless".

But the Ministry of Natural Resources has proven beyond the shadow of a doubt that the lake indeed, has a bottom. In 1968, with the aid of specialized echo sounder, which bounces sound waves off the water's bottom, Hall's Lake was found to be slightly more than 264 feet in its deepest spot. That depth may make it to be one of the deepest fresh water lakes in the country, if not the continent, but the Ministry's tests dispelled the widely held belief that the lake had a bottom that was below sea level.

As for the story related in Nila Reynolds book, a Ministry spokesman suggested a simple explanation to the mysterious disappearing warp line. When the cable was released, it may have been over the deepest section of the lake, and due to the weight and immense length of the line, it "may have been difficult for them (the men) to judge if the line touched bottom." Too, said the spokesman, the cables may have simply coiled up on the bottom of the hole, where it would be nearly impossible to tell when they touched.

Still, the bottom of the lake would seem ominously far down to any diver or scientist who could descent 264 feet into a crushing pressure of seven atmospheres or more than 116 pounds per square inch and 45 degree fahrenheit temperatures, for the bottom probably would appear black to the naked eye. The deepest spot would be about an eighth of a mile in diameter, according to the contour maps the MNR has compiled, and officials say much of the bottom where it is shallower consists of gravel and sand and countless tons of silt and sediment in the lake's deeper reaches. There is very little bare rock on the lake's bottom, and practically no weeds or underwater vegetation, except near the mouth of the Kennis River along the eastern shore. This differs greatly from other lakes in the county, where many of the bottoms which are more shallow hold an abundance of plant life, or where the banks and shorelines consist mainly of rock. Interesting to note is that granite is the pulverized material that makes up Hall's Lake's bottom; the same type of rock which is still in whole or solid form in neighbouring lakes.

The bottom point is located between McClaughlin's Point and the lake's island, within a stretch of about three eighths of a mile. Within that stretch, on the southern end of the hole, the edge descends to the bottom within a quarter of a mile. In the northern portion, from the island, the drop is even steeper. And around the whole lake, the sides drop off gradually, culminating in this one, an unseen pit.

Because of its depth and cool temperatures (the thermocline, or depth where the water temperature suddenly changes, is at 20 feet in July), Hall's Lake has become an excellent source of small to medium sized lake trout and smallmouth bass. It is one of the most popular fishing lakes in the county, though no catches over six pounds have been registered with the MNR. The lake trout, according to fisheries officials, enjoy cruising the shoals where a ledge may be, somewhere where they may feed and descend back down into the colder climes. In the winter, they will come quite close to the lake's surface, or very close to shore, since the water temperature is cold enough.

Bass will cruise just about anywhere, and will normally stay in the warmer waters close to the shore. Submerged logs from the river drive days close to the lake banks have historically been the hiding place of the smallmouths, and some have been spotted in the Kennis River. But the king of Hall's is the lake trout. In fact, the waters are deemed as a lake trout fishery area by the MNR. Last winter, Ministry crews dumped gravel on the ice around McClaughlin's point, where the spawning occurs, in order to provide a better bottom to facilitate egg-hatching.

An aquatic survey of the lake is to be taken soon by MNR staff, to update the old 1968 information on file. Acid rain has posed a new threat to the fish population, and the Ministry will examine what, if any, effects the phenomenon has had on the waters. The study will be in conjunction with Professor Harvey's studies from the University of Toronto.

"We're going to see if depth will have any effect with the acid rain upon fish," said Ray Simpson with the fish and wildlife department. Upon last report, the oxygens above the 40-foot mark were "good", and the lake itself remains "very clean", Simpson added.

Hand in hand with the technical, scientific knowledge of Hall's Lake, there goes the old folk tale of how the water's came by their name. It seems a trapper named Hall, camping on the shores of the great lake, disagreed with a band of passing Indians, and was murdered by them. White men, upon hearing of his fate, named the lake after him. Some will tell you, those who have lived on the lake's shores, that the ghost of Hall still wanders the water's edge late at night. And when the moon glides through the night clouds, and the lonely cry of the loon echoes across the lake, some say you can even hear old Hall crying out in distress.

But some also said Hall's Lake was bottomless.

COUNTY ECHO FAMILY

Extendicare News by Dr. W.O. Anderson

The pansies have lately been going to seed and unless we remove these end products as they form their blushing buds, they will greatly diminish. This does apply to all the flowering species of plants, and that is what now takes our time. An over-ripe rose bloom can sure make an awful clutter. It is good that our poppies are a non narcotic variety, because with the hundred odd buds now showing we will have a great number of beautiful poppy flowers. Over the long weekend the flowers in the lounge planter showed indication of light starvation so we took them all out, planting them outside, then leaving the jade plant in the middle. It was an excellent meeting place for the two big leaf philodendrons, nicely filling the planter again with a low light tolerance foliage. A little reshuffling with other plants filled the void of taking the philodendrons. The whole maneuver adds attraction to the lounge. A correction is desirable in last week's news, in stating that George and Edna Tipton had donated a delightful hanging basket of bamboo fern, trailing petunia, a begonia on which was superimposed a very nice spider plant. On rummaging in the pot while watering, a card was found which indicated it was a gift from Minden Horticultural Society. Thanks anyway everybody because this many simply be compounding a further error.

This is still OCAP country when Tuesday morning we find Mrs. Donna Dillon with a new helper. Miss Kim Roberts a niece of Stewart, replaces Miss Cathy Feir as helper to the secretary. We welcome this ambitious, young lady to our midst. Miss Susan Ainsworth of Toronto is undertaking the job of helping Mrs. Pat Burk, our activity director, to keep the Happy Gang on their best behaviour. She replaces Miss Anne Craig as an OCAP participant. Welcome to your new job Susan, formerly a worker in the Addiction Research Foundation. It sounds encouraging.

Wednesday we picked our first radish from the garden, an amazing variety having no blemishes. In previous years it was an exception to find an unblemished plant from the first picking. Even last year the paring knives had to do a lot of gouging. In addition to the radish, we found some lambs quarters commonly regarded as a weed and picked enough to have as greens for our dinners. This pig weed (its other name) is probably the most flavourful of all the greens. It would seem that no one would like to grow it for its delicacy. Just the same it makes a nice 'spinach'.

Our Miss Alice Hartle never ceases to amaze us. The best worker of all of us skimps where she can, saving her precious dollars to give it to the Happy Gang, her latest contribution being $8.80 which we promptly put away in our bank account for future use. Thanks Alice.

Thursday morning our ladies baked a cake for a sad farewell party for Mrs. Dorothy Davidson, one of our most active volunteer helpers (especially bingo) on the eve of her departure for Hespeler to take up residence there. Among the cooks were, Mrs. Flossie Burk, Mrs. Edith LaRue, Mrs. Christina McCrae, Mrs. Hazel Parish, Mrs. Noreen Stevens, Mrs. Maude Weston and Mrs. Lottie Woodcock at the direction of Mrs. Pat Burk and her helper, Miss Susan Ainsworth. Featured in the party were Ms. Sheila Elston and Mrs. Gerane Bonyun, pianists, and those of us, all the volunteer helpers, and Extendicare staff that could and would sing in the guidance of the master of ceremonies, Mrs. Pat Burk, a goodly number of the old time favourites. Gifts were presented by us, by the volunteer helpers, and from the Extendicare staff. Finally came the cake which we found to be exceptionally delicious.

Rev. John Smith of Lake-side Baptist Church, Haliburton was our spiritual leader for the Friday morning devotion period, Lieut. Ron Mailman of the Haliburton Salvation Army was a stand-in and gave a solo of praise 'Without Him I would be nothing' accompanying himself on his guitar. Mrs. May Ward was the pianist. The theme was taken from the 139th Psalm 'He knows all' indicating that Christ being within everyone knows our thoughts, our likes and dislikes, our short comings - everything. This service was followed by a light snack of tea or coffee, and cookies, at which time we renewed our friendships.

Three movies were shown in the afternoon. 1. 'Tennessee bird walk' a comic cartoon, 2. 'What price beauty', showing the great effort by Canada's scientists to upgrade our flowers, climatizing their breeding to endure the harsh winter climate. The movies showed proof of their success. 3. More British Columbia tourism film, much of it being repetitive.

About six weeks ago we planted a habiscus in a gravel bed, but put a full peck of chicken manure covered by a full sized sod in the planting hole as a preliminary and insurance. During Thursday night one or more raccoons must have thought we put a chicken there because they did the neatest job of digging up our precious habiscus. We can't win them all. About 10 nights ago they dug up a couple of our glad bulbs that had no chicken. We do not need to feel so lonely now that we have coons around.

Saturday evening, Mrs. Pat Burk drove a carload of us to the Lochlin United Church where we were treated to a picnic type dinner topped off by a huge dish of freshly picked strawberries. It was one of the most delightful occasions of our young lives. It is so nice at this time of year when other church groups are doing the same, making Haliburton County one of the greatest for hospitality. This church group even held a bazaar catering to good values. As a momento we dug up a couple of sprigs of moss which grows in profusion in part of the church grounds. These sprigs will be put in our little terrarium as an interesting specimen of plant.

Grade eight ceremonies held at Cobie Legion

The Cobocok Legion was the location of grade 8 graduation ceremonies on Monday, June 25. An excellent meal was provided for the graduates and guests by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Following the meal, messages were conveyed by Clare Fielder, local school board representative; Dave Parrott, superintendent of schools and Jim Hopkins, Principal of Cobocok Public School.

This year's valedictorian was Lisa Hannivan. Lisa received the grade 8 Efficiency Award.

The 1978-1979 graduates are - Susan Laidlaw, Paul Summerfeldt, Heather Yeo, Jeff Lytle, Dennis Bryant, Michele Green, Lisa Hannivan, Marcy Green, Nadine Crookes, Shelly Jones, Susan Rucka and Jeff Benson.

Following the presentation of the diplomas, a dance was held for the graduating class and their invited guests. An excellent time was had by all present.

Activities at the Lakeview Centre got underway last week with a children's craft program. Here Corinne Anderson, left, Michelle Parish and Alexandra Lytle work on their projects. Courses at the Haliburton School of Fine Arts get underway this week.

Senior League by Linda English

Hyland Crest is looking very pretty these days. The geraniums and petunias are blooming beautifully at the front of the building. Our maintenance staff have planted some new roses this year, and they are just gorgeous. We can look out the dining room windows and admire them every day.

Even though the weather was not so good on the weekend, there were lots of visitors at Hyland Crest. Monday was a day of relaxation and rest. It was a special day for Lillian Miller who celebrated her birthday. She was presented with a decorated cake at lunch time and everyone joined in and sang "Happy Birthday to Lilly."

Tuesday morning we joined Rev. Brooks of Kinmount Anglican Church for Communion service in the chapel. In the afternoon, Doris Robertson called some members and several residents tried their luck at bingo. After the game we had a surprise visitor. Ian Brohm played the piano and sang a few songs for us. It turned out to be a most enjoyable afternoon.

Tuesday evening brought about a different change of events when some of our residents went to watch Jack's Brats beat the pants off Andy's Angels at the ball park in Minden.

Wednesday morning began with our fun and fitness program. We had a game of darts and came up with some pretty good scores.

After lunch the ladies made their way to the craft room to work on their projects. Residents and volunteers are working extremely hard these days preparing handmade items for the bazaar on July 18. While the ladies were working in the craft room, the gentlemen enjoyed a game of carpet bowling in the auditorium. After the game, the fellows joined the gals for tea and goodies.

We had a real good turnout to fun and fitness on Thursday morning. Everyone was in good voice when we sang the "Good Morning Song" and did the "Kokie Okie". It is nice to see that even those confined to wheelchairs thoroughly enjoy a vigorous game of kick the ball.

In the afternoon the M.A.R.C. wives brought a delicious lunch for the Thursday tea party. They served an assortment of cakes and squares. Thank you girls for a very tasty snack.

Friday began in the morning with our fun and fitness program. Later, in the afternoon, we ended another busy week with Mrs. Grace Coburn leading the sing song and Lucille Clark accompanying on the piano. Please don't forget to save us, watermelon, canteloupe and citron seeds as these kinds are hard to come by, and the only way we can get them is if there is someone who is kind enough to save them for us.

Energy workshop for teachers will be held

A new opportunity for Ontario teachers to expand their knowledge about energy is being presented this summer as a joint project of the Ontario Ministries of Energy and Education and the Ontario Teachers' Federation (OTF).

A three-week teachers' workshop, to be held July 23 to August 10 in Toronto and at the Boyne Natural Science School, near Orangeville, will give teachers up-to-date information on energy and instruction on teaching tools and skills to help them convey the information in the classroom. About 35 teachers from across the province have registered for the non-credit workshop to date.

The $25,000 project is being jointly financed by the Ministries of Energy and Education and administered by the OTF.

"By making this concentrated learning experience available to professional educators, we believe we will not only enlarge the knowledge and skills of our province's teachers, but we will also speed the incorporation of energy curricula in school subjects ranging from Geography and Economics to Science," said Ontario Energy Minister James A. C. Auld.

The workshop is an extension of an experimental three-week program held last

Have you ever been to an auction. The fast paced jabber is a little unnerving at first but will make sense if you listen and watch. Auctions can be a good chance to make economical buys if you remember a few tips while there.

(1) Don't jump in at the first price. The auctioneer gets a percentage of the sales, so it starts high. But if you wait, the price will come down which is where you want it for the climbing see-saw bidding that will follow.

(2) Most auctions have a number system. When you arrive, register with the bookkeeper and then all purchases will go against that number.

Arrive early to give yourself a chance to inspect the articles. A dresser may look great from a distance but at a closer view you may find a lot of work is required to make it useable. Be casual when looking. Too much attention may draw others to "other" items. Check through boxes to be sure you know all the contents you'll be bidding on.

(4) When bidding, speak confidently. Often a forceful bidder will psyche out one who is climbing the dollars gingerly. They may back off if you seem to demand ownership.

(5) Keep a constant list in mind of things you need.

(6) Remember prices on the open market, don't get drawn into the excitement of the moment.

(7) Establish a price in your mind before the bidding begins. When you reach that point, back off. Auction fever can blow a budget if you aren't careful.

(8) If you failed to buy the item you wanted in a collection, check with the purchaser. He or she may have been after a different thing and be willing to sell it to you.

Happy buying and see you there!

Response to our "3 in 1" contest has been encouraging!

Mrs. Eva Smith of Tory Hill wrote in with a double use for plastic bottles of different sizes. Funnels can be made by cutting across the bottle and removing the cap for the small opening. Scoops can be made by cutting one side of the bottle and removing the bottom. Trim gradually until desired shape is obtained. The neck becomes the handle. By testing the scoop with a measuring cup you can mark with a felt pen 1/2, 1 and 2 cups for quick measurement. You'll find the funnels handy for gassing up the lawnmower, or topping the oil in the car. The scoops can be kept in your container of bird seed or in the bin of flour for breadmaking.

Mrs. Jeanne Sears of Minden suggests a good lunch box idea. Baby Food jars are just right for fruit, cold beans or puddings. Save plastic spoons for indefinite reuse.

Mrs. Mary Robertson of Haliburton sent a clever idea for travellers. Use restaurant placemats for stationery. It eliminates carrying writing paper on your journey and makes interesting mail for friends back home. Map placemats can pinpoint your location.

There's still lots of time for you to get your entry in for the $15. prize offered at the end of July. Review your recycling practices (some you do habitually and never think of it as recycling) and share your ideas. Send entries to Recycle It!, Haliburton Echo, Box 360, Haliburton, Ont., K0M 1S0.

Trent/Severn News

During the winter, the Trent-Severn Waterway interpretation program has been reprinting historical reports on the waterway, and making them available to interested groups and libraries.

This publication program, which has been underway for about a year, is now 80 percent completed. The reports are reprints of interesting items from the historical files at the Waterway Office in Peterborough, some of which go back to the 1860's. They deal with early dam and lock construction, and with the general ups and downs of the long struggle to complete the waterway over its century of construction.

Other reports have been prepared by Parks Canada historians. These have been reprinted in an attractive, economical format, and have been distributed to all school and community libraries in the Waterway corridor.

We hope, in the near future, to introduce two new booklets. One will deal with the Hydraulic Lift Locks on the system, and the other will

OPP marine unit out each day checking vessels and cottages

by Constable Wim Magee

The OPP marine unit from Minden is out each day in the county checking vessels and cottages.

Vessels not over 5.5 metres are required to carry one approved lifejacket or personal flotation device for each person on board, two paddles or oars and a bailer. If the vessel is over 5.5 metres but under 8 metres, the only change is that an anchor can be substituted for the paddles or oars and if power driven a class B1 fire extinguisher must be carried. The marine officers are still finding many vessels lacking life-saving equipment and persons with non-approved lifebelts.

There have been two reported boat collisions in the county this year and the OPP suggest that all boaters exercise caution when operating vessels due to the number of boaters operating on the lakes. Extreme caution should be exercised at night when lights are required.

If you wish more information on boating or wish a copy of the Transport Canada Boating Safety Guide, you are welcome to drop into the Minden OPP Detachment.

Norland Notebook

by Barbara Maunder

The regular council meeting was held on Tuesday, July 3 in the township office with all of the members present. Some of the mothers of minor hockey players, Mrs. Fern Fason, Mrs. Valerie Greer and Mrs. Fae Quinn asked the council to help subsidize the players but as previously stated at June 13 meeting, council felt that this was not possible at this time.

As a concerned cottage resident and taxpayer, Mrs. Thomas Wansbrough spoke to the council re: trailer park by-law enforcement.

By-law #12-79 to authorize the sale of lands along the Gull River reserve was read three times and passed. By-law #13-79 to rezone Block B, Plan 531, in Alvin Gostlin subdivision, from existing use to residential was read a first and second time.

A motion was passed to have a sign reading "Fire Hall" be made and erected on the township fire hall. The clerk was asked to write MTC re: the patching of holes on Highway 505. The building inspector reports for May and June were accepted and filed. Approval was passed to cancel the taxes #2-79, J. D. Johnson, part of Lot 6, Conc. 11, Laxton, in the amount of $101.50. Mr. Johnson's home was destroyed by fire in February. Council also approved the application for cancellation of taxes #3-79 in the amount of $33.12 of Shadow Lakes Development, for Blocks A and B, Plan 538, Laxton.

A motion was passed that council go into a committee of the whole and Reeve Ridgway vacated the chair and councillor Riordan acted as chairman of council. The following recommendations were made: 1. That the O.P.P. be instructed to investigate and clear the obstacles blocking the Laxton-Digby boundary line road. 2. That a letter be sent to those who are grossly in arrears of taxes stating that the present rate of payment is unsatisfactory and that steps must be taken to clear up the arrears by the end of 1979. The reeve then resumed the chair and by a show of hands declared the committee's report approved.

The building inspector is to be permitted 20 cents a mile in the performance of his duties with mileage to commence at the township office and a mileage report is to be submitted monthly.

Some of our church neighbours in Minden have shown their concern about the plight of the boat people from Vietnam by making arrangements through government agencies to have a family come to Minden. Rev. Douglas Miller of Minden-Carnarvon pastoral charge is asking all interested people to help them by donating one or more units of $20 and raise $6000, to cover the living expenses of this vietnamese family for one year. Anyone who would like to assist with this project and support it with a pledge is asked to contact Ralph Brown 454-8253 or Rev. D. Miller at his church office 286-1470 or his home 286-2042. Let us open our hearts and wallets to these unfortunate people who have had to flee from their home and country and have nowhere to go. Surely we can all help in some small way!

John Beachli has just completed another fine job of rockery work in the Norland Horticultural Society's park beside the post office. Les Thomas has added the finishing touches by his attractive plantings of flowers in the new rock garden. I hope that next time you are passing by that you will notice the picturesque horticultural flower beds.

The day has dawned bright and sunny so all should go well at the fifth annual Norland Firefighters Association Horse Draw on Saturday, July 7. Ingram Wessell has kindly donated the time and materials to make a gravel filled draw pad to ensure good footing for the horses and ponies. Some of our local merchants are sponsors of the trophies being presented at the horse draw. The best teamster trophy in the heavy class was given by Norland Discount Gas; light class - Riverside Inn; pony class - Austin Lumber; and ladies class - Wessell family. The winning cup for the heavy class was donated by Norland Red & White store; the light class - Country Style Donuts; N. Graham Plumbing contributed the trophy for the pony class winner and the Wessell family, the winning lady's trophy. The ribbons, the weights and stone boat are being supplied by the Jack Batty family. It certainly is great to see so many people take such an active interest in a local project.

All are invited to the dance sponsored by the hockey association of the Norland Athletic Club at the Norland Community Hall on Saturday, July 14 from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. The dance will feature Rick Hughes and his Badban group and the bar will be licensed by L.L.B.O. Admission is $4.00 per person.

There was some excitement just south of Norland on Friday, July 6 about 5:30 p.m. A large van loaded with plywood and lumber and travelling north on Highway 35, mistook the Government Dock Road for highway 503 turn-off and made a right hand turn so quickly that his load shifted causing the truck to roll over on its side into trees. Fortunately the two occupants were not injured and both escaped through the passenger side window. The truck dripped gas and some of the local firemen stood by with fire extinguishers so no fire ensued. The lumber had to be unloaded before the truck could be righted and towed away by a truck from Hannivan's garage in Cobocok. Both the top and side of the van were badly smashed.

I hope some of you heard Everett Cameron, reeve of Bexley Township, being interviewed by CHAY F.M.'s announcer Bruce Smith on Tuesday, July 3 during their noon hour news broadcast. They discussed the population growth of Cobocok during summer months, Balsam Lake Park expansion and senior citizen, housing requirements and other topics.

In addition to selling their wares, members of the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts gave demonstrations at the annual summer exhibition and sale of arts and crafts, which opened last Friday night. The show will continue until July 17th.

After a dull weekend, the sun is shining. I remember in school days, a sentence we had to analyse "As a rule a man's a fool, when it's hot he wants it cool, when it's cool he wants it hot, always wanting what is not." Surely we can expect warmer weather in July, but, perhaps, by the time this comes out in print, it will be much warmer. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chambers had all their family home for the weekend. It was nice to see Cindy at church. She used to be in the choir, but has been in Fort McMurray for almost two years and this is the first time she has been home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Barnett have returned from a holiday in England.

Mrs. Carl Doey visited with her mother in Blenheim, Ontario, on the occasion of her 91st birthday.

Mr. Norman Wallace had his two daughters with their husbands and children all home for the weekend.

Craig Windsor's children are here for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Russell have their two grandsons, Billy and Tommy Gasky with them. Mr. and Mrs. Colin Russell spent the holiday weekend and will be going to Australia later in the summer. Colin is looking forward to meeting Judy's parents.

Claude Crego and Mervin Bacon started the "Kinmount Car Wash" at the old station. The kids are doing very well at 60 cents a car and they are there from 9:30 in the morning till 6:30 in the evening. There's no excuse for dirty cars on the street now.

There will be a teen dance at the Legion hall on Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock, $1.00 admission.

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

After working for the Department of Highways for many years, Lloyd MacDuff has decided that it is time to retire. The knowledge he has gained through valuable experience on the job will make him hard to replace. On Friday June 29, 1979 he was presented with a plaque by Deputy Minister Harold Gilbert on behalf of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications. In this way they acknowledged 29 years of faithful service. From his fellow employees he received a gold, engraved pocket watch. To celebrate this great occasion, members of his family held a special affair and presented Lloyd with a plaque on which their names were inscribed and reading "Happy Retirement Dad". Lloyd is looking forward to some well earned leisure time with plenty of fishing on the agenda.

Wilberforce was invaded on Saturday, June 30, when crowds of people arrived to enjoy the annual Fiddle and Dance program. This was organized by Walter Klapow for the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 624. Walter is president of the organization. Soon accommodations in neighbouring campsites and cottages were filled to capacity with the overflow being lodged in the area surrounding the municipal buildings.

The contest took place in the arena with over 40 aspirants taking part. Through the day could be heard the constant twanging of the fiddles and the tapping of flying feet in the practice rooms. Everyone seemed to be in high spirits with the visitors loud in the praise of the hospitality shown by the local residents.

A sobering moment occurred when an elderly gentleman collapsed after having played an arrangement on the fiddle to accompany a step-dancing friend. Monmouth firemen produced survival equipment and two nurses worked diligently with resuscitation methods until the ambulance arrived from Haliburton. A fine dinner was served in the Memorial Centre by the ladies. It is said that far more than had been expected turned up to sample this excellent meal.

At seven in the evening began the awarding of prizes and trophies. A huge crowd of spectators watched and applauded. Most enjoyable was the dancing, singing and tap dancing of the talented Leahy family from Lakefield. The success of the contest was due in a large measure to the efforts of the genial master of ceremonies Art Jamieson from Beechburg. The evening ended with a dance in the Memorial Centre so popular that in no time at all a capacity crowd had gained admittance and many were disappointed at being turned away.

This event is growing each year and is becoming rather difficult to handle in the allotted time. Looks as though it would be advantageous to channel it into a two-day affair. The Legion was fortunate to have secured so many dedicated volunteers to provide a smooth running operation. Many thanks to all for the hours spent to make such a successful occasion.

Kinmount Klippings

by Fran Crawford

Hi folks. Well, here we are in the second week of July. Summer will soon be gone again.

Sorry to hear Mrs. Aileen Brown is in Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. We hope she will be home real soon.

Bingo! Mrs. Doris Bartley of Norland won the jackpot at Branch 441 on Friday night. There was to be 58 numbers called for $180, and she won on the 53rd. Congratulations, Doris, and Dora Lilley won $80, on Thursday night at Cobocok bingo. This week will start a new pot at Kinmount with 50 numbers for $100.00. Come out and try your luck.

Mr. Lawrence Hickey is in Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. We hope he is soon feeling better.

Kinmount has the street lights going on the bridge again. They delivered the new steel for underneath last week so the department is busy getting that in place. The bridge should be as good as ever again.

Ron and Millie Graham and family of Simcoe spent a two-week vacation at their home at Irondale.

Albert and Vi Crego have gone to the west coast for a month vacation.

Our second Wednesday open upstairs at Royal Canadian Legion Branch 441 we had a good crowd playing cards in the afternoon and evening. We had the tapes playing so a few were on the dance floor. There was a good crowd at our Saturday night dance. Marg Graham and the Westernaires put up the music. We had dancers from Weston, Irondale, Fencelon Falls and Lindsay. The evening was topped off with coffee and sandwiches. This week Ken Laver will be playing.

Mrs. Lil Platt is away on a well deserved holiday.

Gerry and Verna Crego have left on a two-week vacation.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

It seems like a dream that the first week of July is long gone; so much has happened in that week that my head is still spinning. On July 3 my daughter and son-in-law took me to Malton Airport to get the two grandchildren who were flying in from Nova Scotia. The plane was an hour late, and I think I wore a hat in the floor of the arrival lounge. No reasons were given, it was just late. Finally we also got the luggage and breathed a sigh of relief to be heading for home, all tired but happy.

After getting reacquainted with the children for the rest of the week I had to come up with a birthday party on the 8th for our grandson who was 11 years old then. I'm sure I'm getting old, for it is one thing I sure needed help with, and got the help, thanks to family and friends. Anyway he was happy so it was worth it.

On the 1st of July weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Loyne Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Cox, Sally Cox and Anne Smith spent the holiday in Buffalo, N.Y. While there they attended the wedding of Susan Sielski and Kenneth Duke.

Even with so much going on the County Fair barbecue and dance had a large crowd attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt, also Mr. and Mrs. Bud Marks of Thornhill recently spent some time visiting North Bay and Callendar.

Minden United Church annual summer supper will be held at the church hall on Wednesday, July 18 from 5 p.m. on. Everyone welcome. Recent visitors with the Phil Robinsons were Mr. and Mrs. Ern Voicoy of Gamebridge; also Roy Rogers of Orillia.

On Monday, July 16, at 1 p.m., the puppet shows, "The Egg, Snow White & Rose Red", will be shown upstairs at the municipal office. These puppet shows are free, so be sure and bring the kids.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Billings of Cameron spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Sinc Nesbitt.

Did you know that nine pennies weigh one ounce, and that one hundred and forty-four pennies weigh one pound?

Miss Sandra Sears of Toronto was a recent guest with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milt Sears.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bird, Nancy and Julie are on holidays. They plan to visit the African Lion Safari at Rockton before returning home.

The Royal Ontario Museum Fossil Museum will be in Minden, July 19. It will be at the parking lot by the firehall and will be open from 2 p.m. - 5 p.m.; 7 p.m. - 9 p.m. Everyone is invited to take a tour through this fascinating mobile.

Sharon and Glenna Anderson of Tillsonburg are spending their holidays with their grandmother, Mrs. Nell Anderson.

Recipe for the week: Lemon Puff Pie - 1 (4 oz.) pkg. lemon pie filling; 1/2 cup sugar; 2 1/4 cups water; 4 tbsp. sugar; 2 egg yolks; 2 egg whites; 1 baked 9-inch pie shell cooled; combine pie filling mix, 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup water in saucepan; blend in beaten egg yolks; add 2 cups water. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil and is thickened; remove from heat. Pour half the filling into pie shell; beat egg whites until foamy, gradually add 4 tbsp. sugar, 2 tsp. at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Continue beating until mixture forms soft rounded peaks. Fold remaining hot filling into egg white mixture. Spread evenly over pie filling in shell, then chill.

What will they think of next? When Emma Hewitt told me that she and Earl had attended a pool party at the Arthur Thorpes in Brampton, I, of course, thought of them shooting pool, but it was a swimming pool party not the other kind, and Emma had the laugh on me when I told her what I had thought it was.

Need a hostess gift, hospital or wedding present? Package your kitchen specialty, pot a plant or hook a rug. Giving something you have done yourself will be happy for the receiver and you will know there won't be a duplicate.

They are in touch with rockhounds from the States and across Canada and our fame is growing. Ken and Lynn hold day seminars through the summer months to help you get acquainted with stones that are available and to provide information on collecting and identification. The next seminar will be on July 28. They also organize field trips. The annual Rockhound Fair will be coming up in August. Get ready for it now. Boys and girls during vacation time will find the search for interesting rocks and stones a fascinating pastime.

Water Control
On Monday, June 25, the Haliburton Reservoir Lakes of the Trent-Severn Waterway held 95.2 percent of their normal maximum stored water. Withdrawals continued this week as last week, to replace evaporation along the canal route from Balsam Lake to Trenton.

Rain on Friday, June 22, helped considerably in the Kawartha Lakes and on Lake Simcoe-Couchiching, but drier weather resulted in a net loss by Monday.

Some flow delays between upstream lakes and those lower down in the Gull system have temporarily caused lakes such as Twelve Mile, Boshkung and Maple to go lower than the percentage level of the others. This often happens at the beginning of drawing reservoir water because of problems setting the proper flow and time required. Water may be easily taken from one lake which is to be partly replaced from upstream. The upstream channel, however, may be long and swampy requiring the passage of several days before the water gets through to the lower lake. These discrepancies in levels should disappear through the next week as the percentages become equalized again.

Dale Weaver, son of Ruth and Lorne, is doing well and his hand is healing well following his accident while staying in Detroit to compete in canoe races. He cut tendons in his hand while preparing for the canoe races.

Mrs. Mildred Faulkner spent a week with her sister, Mrs. Edith Ferguson, at Bradford, and visited Edith's husband, Lorne, who has been very ill in hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Richman had as their visitors, granddaughter Sandy from Ottawa and her father Herb Fell of Lindsay.

Sincere Sympathy to Jim Black in the passing of his mother, Mrs. M. Black. Mrs. Black passed away in Ross Memorial Hospital after several weeks' illness.

Vera McKague was a very familiar face in Shields dry goods store a number of years ago. She retired and moved to Cannington. Vera has had major surgery and is now in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay. I'm sure she'd appreciate a card to cheer her at this time.

Mrs. Mary Limrick is out of hospital and staying with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sims or Powels Corners.

"Shorty" Moore is a patient in Ross Memorial Hospital, following a lawn mower accident. Shorty was cutting the lawn and accidentally severed the ends of some of his toes. Our get well wishes to him.

Last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Farrow, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Farrow and Mrs. Frances Farrow and Dwayne attended the fiddle contest at the Watson Memorial Centre at Wilberforce.

Mrs. Ada Irwin and Mrs. Jessie Chase of Lindsay and Mr. John Haag and his mother visited Mr. and Mrs. R. Faulkner last week.

The summer swim program is well underway. The little folks are over at the park with their instructors and happily enjoying our all too brief summer months!

Cross dogs can be a nuisance. Unfortunately, summer brings in a lot of extra pets, some feared by a few of us. If you are threatened by a vicious dog, report it to the Animal Control Officer. A neighbour can no longer take his usual route for the mail or shopping, since about 5 dogs, all out from the city, charged at her. So don't hesitate to take measures needed if you are attacked by one of these animals.

From the old Everyday Cook Book published in 1892 comes this remedy for ridding your property of rats. "Pound glass, mix with dry cornmeal and place in rat-infested area. They eat the meal and pounded glass and that should mean death." And "To Keep Flies Off Gilt Mirrors", boil three or four onions in a pint of water and apply with a soft brush!

Happy vacationing if you're one of the lucky ones to be at one of our lovely lakes!

Dorset News

By Phyllis Briscoe

"It isn't necessary to blow out the other person's light to let your own shine."

The Dorset Lions will be holding their first street dance of the summer on Saturday, July 14 at the Dorset Community Centre.

For those wishing to attend the races at Woodbine on the 26th please contact either Jeanette Large at 766-2277 or Lorraine Weatherell at 766-2620 on or before July 18, as they must have confirmation of all those planning to take the bus trip.

We wish to congratulate the Dorset students who graduated from Huntsville High School for their achievements. Tammy Mace graduated with honours. Nigel Tappin received several awards: the Lions Club proficiency award, the Weldwood award for proficiency in Grade 13 Biology, the Dornier award for proficiency in Grade 13 Chemistry and the Mathematics award in Euclid competition. Joanne Robinson received the Senior Typing award from the Ontario Business Education Association. David Keown was presented with the Arrowhead Motors award for Automotive Technology.

The Dorset Senior Club is holding a bazaar and sale July 21 at the Dorset Community Centre. There will be home baking, hand-made bazaar items, table of treasures, country store, books, tea tables, hot dogs and pop, a raffle, an auction on an oil painting, some of our local artisans will have booths and have their creations for sale. So you see, there will be something for everyone. So come and enjoy the excitement of our first big endeavour. We'll be expecting you.

On the long weekend we had visiting ministers in a couple of our local churches. Reverend Doug Clark, priest in charge of All Hallows in Toronto, officiated at St. Mary Magdalenes in Dorset and Fr. Jim Francom, former priest of the Lake of Bays Mission churches was visiting in the area and took the service at Port Cunningham.

TORY HILL NEWS

Switzer out and around again. The residents of Little Lindsay at Dack's Lake are back for a week's holiday. I hope the weather stays nice for them and all other vacationers in the area.

And so till next week, providing we have news to write up, have a good week.

I appreciate any calls and also would like to hear from our Essonville friends with some news.

Haliburton Highlights

by Creighton Feir

Swimming classes are underway at the Rotary Beach in Haliburton and by looking at the number of cars parked at the beach when the swimming classes are in session, it would appear that a record number are registered for the swimming lessons.

Vandalism in Haliburton seems like something that just isn't going to go away. It would appear that it's something that we are going to have to live with. I was told that over the holiday weekend some person or persons were getting their kicks from hanging around the cenotaph and throwing bottles at the caboose which is now located near the station. Local citizens have been very upset over this problem and are wondering when something is going to be done about it.

Everything is at the ready for Haliburton's Third Annual Fiddling and Step Dancing Championships to be held at the curling arena in Haliburton this coming Friday and Saturday, July 13 and 14. Harold Bannon, chairman of the big event, told us that entries have been coming in at a fast rate for both the fiddling classes and the step dancing classes. There will be $2,000 in cash prizes awarded to the winners. We have also been informed that a crisp $100 bill will be given away as a door prize. Programs will be starting at 1:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. on Friday and 1:00 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Saturday with a dance following the Saturday evening finals. Music for the dance will be supplied by the famous singing and dancing family - The Frank Leahy Dance Band. It's all being sponsored by the Dysart Recreation and Community Centres Board.

Why not take some time off and treat yourself to a visit to the new Haliburton Highlands Pioneer Museum which is located at Glebe Centennial Park at Haliburton Village. It's open from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. from July 1 to Labour Day, every day. The estimated total cost of the new museum is $210,000. This project is financed jointly by Wintario and municipal grants, with the private sector funding being $105,000. Your support would be appreciated and please send your contribution to the Municipality of Dysart et al, Museum Account, Box 382, Haliburton, Ontario.

A large crowd was on hand for the Donkey Baseball game which was played at the Haliburton ball diamond last Thursday night between the Haliburton Kinsmen and the Haliburton Fire Department.

Dave Sands, director of Camp Illahee, a Haliburton summer camp for medically handicapped children was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club of Haliburton's weekly meeting which was held at the United Church last Thursday evening. Previously located in Cobourg, the camp purchased the former Drag Lake Lodge last year. In his most interesting talk he gave a history of the camp, how that it came to locate in Haliburton and told the group that since 1946, Illahee has been catering to children with health problems that include controlled epilepsy, diabetes, haemophilia, cardiac and kidney conditions, allergies, asthma, and learning disabilities. Some very interesting questions were asked during the question and answer period.

The 34th Annual Haliburton Legion Carnival is all set for the Haliburton Curling Club and fairgrounds on Wednesday, July 18. The big day will be kicked off at 1:00 p.m. with a midway at the fairgrounds with plenty of rides for young and old. The highlight of the day will be a parade at 7 p.m. featuring bands, floats and marching units followed by a band concert featuring the O.P.P. band. In the curling rink there will be hamburgers, pop, games of chance, and live entertainment featuring The Ike Kenech Band. Bingo in the Legion auditorium starting at 8 p.m. Plan now to bring along the entire family for an evening of fun and entertainment.

Ron Curry, the first president of the Rotary Club of Haliburton, had a great honour bestowed upon him at the club's year-end meeting held recently at Wig-A-Mog Inn. He was presented with the Paul Harris Fellowship for his outstanding service to both the Rotary Club and the community during the past years. The award was presented to Ron by his son Peter who gave a rundown on the many local organizations Ron is a member of and his many contributions to the community. Ron, who has 35 years perfect attendance was president when the Rotary Club held their first meeting in Haliburton on March 2, 1944. Cost of the award was met by contributions from members of the club.

An exhibit and sale of original oil paintings by Canadian artist Dagnall was held at the PineStone Inn and Country Club at Haliburton last Saturday and Sunday.

The driveway and the parking area behind the Good Medical Centre was paved on Monday.

Farm News & Views

In the pork industry, bigger pigs do not necessarily mean bigger profits.

Although pork producers could market hogs 180 pounds and over profitably in 1978, recent changes to the Canadian Hog Carcass Grading Settlement System makes the 170 to 179 pound weight range the most profitable.

Changes in the grading system were made in January to discourage producers from marketing hogs weighing more than 180 pounds. This modification was made to improve quality by reversing the trend to heavier and usually fatter hogs.

The grading system is based on weight and fat thickness. Each weight class has a set range of indexes measuring fat thickness. The lower the fat thickness, the higher the index. The 1979 modification increased indexes in the 160 to 169 pound (class 6) and 170 to 179 pound weight ranges (class 7). Indexes for classes 8 and 9 (over 180 pounds) were decreased.

A three-month survey conducted by the Ontario Pork Producers' Marketing Board found that the highest indexes were obtained in the 170 to 179 pound weight range. However, only one-third of Ontario hogs are marketed at this weight.

At an average price of $72.44 per hundredweight dressed, a 175-pound hog with an index of 104, will sell for $131.84.

Task force report committee be set up composed of representatives from the private sector and the three levels of government to settle the financial arrangements necessary to finalize plans for a convention centre in Metro. Once the facility has been constructed, the report said, the Tourism Ministry should establish an information, promotion and distribution centre for registered delegates. In the meantime, the report proposed the establishment of a portable information and distribution centre that could locate at the various sites of conventions. The result was that on March 19, 1979, the government announced, in recognition of conventions as a major source or revenue, the publication of a Convention and Meeting Guide detailing facilities offered by the province.

Due to the land intensive nature of tourist resorts, the Task Force felt resorts should be assessed in a manner that will take into account the fact that vacant land is one of their most important requirements.

On June 8, 1978, the treasurer made a statement that one of the reasons market value assessment was not being proceeded with at this time was because of a need to find a special way of dealing with land intensive recreational properties.

The report also noted that although the Task Force believed the proposed Ontario Hostelry Institute would improve skills performed by those employed in the hospitality industry, in the interests of restraint in government spending, this could be done by utilizing more fully the existing facilities at community colleges.

On June 12, 1978, the Minister of Industry and Tourism announced that this hospitality training would indeed be done through the courses already established at our community colleges.

The report recommended that the province institute an effective restocking program for the province's lakes, the funding of which could be derived from the implementation of a resident fishing licence.

In June, 1979, the government announced the expansion of Ontario's fisheries management program to be paid for by a new resident angling licence.

Final recommendation was that the Director of Tourism assume the responsibility of coordinating all tourism aspects of the various provincial ministries so that personnel making such decisions will be made aware of the effects their rulings will have on the tourist sector.

The result was that on June 6, 1979, the Minister announced his intention to have his Ministry assume responsibility for coordinating the various steps that will be taken by provincial ministries involved in tourism development.

Dorset News

Intended for last week -

"Nowadays the birds are the only creatures that have nest eggs." Bingo is with us once again. Every Monday and Thursday evening at 8 p.m. during the summer months the Dorset Lions will be sponsoring bingo in the Dorset Community Centre. There is a one hundred dollar jackpot to be won so let's go and good luck to one and all.

There is to be an Archaeology Museum on July 13 from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and 7 to 9 in the evening. Everyone is welcome. They have a very diversified archaeological display and it should be of interest to adults as well as the school children.

On July 18 at 1 p.m. there will be a puppet show by the Deckhands in the Dorset Community Centre. There is no admission charge and everyone is welcome.

John Clayton of Denver is at home for the summer with his parents, Jack and Irene Clayton.

The Dorset Senior Club is off to the races. The Jockey Club extended an invitation to the club to be their guests for an afternoon at Woodbine. They are providing reserved seats in the grandstand, a racing program and a beverage, so the only expense will be food, bus fare and of course, if you bet on the ponies, that comes out of your own pocket. We don't have a busload yet so if anyone is interested call the Large residence at 766-2277. The day and date is Thursday, July 26 and the bus will leave in the morning in time to arrive at the grandstand by 1 p.m. Should be a fun day.

The second long holiday weekend has come and gone and despite the unsettled weather, there were many visitors to the area.
